EXCLUSIVE

BY MARIJKE COX

THE district council's anti-social behaviour unit has incurred costs of almost £150,000 in the past year, but many people in Deal are asking where that money has gone.

Although there has been a 20 per cent reduction in crime, people in the town say there are still problems at weekends.

Sandra Allan, who lives in Deal, said: "I think it's appalling that all this money is being spent and yet there is still trouble every weekend.

"They simply cannot justify spending that much on a unit that's only open 9am to 5pm when all the problems are on Friday and Saturday nights. It should have been spent on getting more police on the streets rather than paying for people to sit behind desks and answer the phone."

Cllr Julie Rook, cabinet member for citizenship and consumer affairs, also lives in Deal and says she has spent a long time trying to stamp out anti-social behaviour in the town.

She said: "I think the money is being well spent.
There has been a definite drop in crime in the area.

"The unit has been successful and people are reporting anti-social behaviour more and more, which shows their confidence is growing.

"Obviously there are still problems, but that is the case anywhere. Unfortunately, it is the worst-affected places that get increased funding, so although we are doing well we are almost penal-ised for it by getting less money."

Money spent on staffing and associated costs at the unit for the year 2006-07 reached £92,515.76, with supplies and services totalling £45,698.33.

Residents encouraged to go green

■ BY MARIJKE COX

DOVER district councillors are helping to combat climate change by promoting ways in which people can help reduce their greenhouse gasses.

As one of the biggest challenges facing mankind, councillors want to bring home the reality to residents.

Cllr Ben Bano, leader of the council's Labour group, said: "Climate change is not just about politics, but something that affects all community groups."

"We need to capture people's imaginations and raise awareness of this issue. There are tangible things people can do to help tackle the problem."

Car sharing, recycling and shopping at farmers' markets are some of the things councillors are encouraging residents to do.

Cllr Marilyn Munt, shadow portfolio for environment and planning, said: "We need people to help ease the problem of climate change by looking at things such as recycling and car sharing."

"People must recognise it's a growing concern that has actually been happening over the past 30 years."

Councils across the country are trying to encourage communities to deal with climate change.

Many have brought in self-assessment kits where people can measure domestic CO<sub>2</sub> emissions.

Cllr Bano said: "We think this is a great idea which allows people to see what they are doing and what they can do to help reduce their carbon footprint."

A paper called the Nottingham Declaration in which local authorities can show a commitment to tackling climate change has been signed by more than 200 councils.

ENVIRONMENTALLY FRIENDLY: Cllr Ben Bano is backing climate change efforts

Asked whether Dover District Council would be signing, Cllr Bano said: "To be honest, we would like to see a bit more progress on it."

"What we need to do first is set ourselves a target and come up with an action plan."

Councillors are encouraging parents to use reusable cloth nappies, businesses to cut down on packaging, and for people to share cars.

For further information on what you can do to help or to calculate your carbon footprint, log on to www.direct.gov.uk/actonCO2.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Forty-nine serious sex offenders in county

KENT has the sixth highest number of sex offenders in the UK living within its boundaries, according to figures published in a national newspaper.

The county has 49 people who have committed a serious sex offence such as rape or assault on a child.

All are classified as Level Three offenders – which means they have served a prison sentence but can never be considered safe.

They are housed mainly in hostels and their identities are concealed from the general public.

The greatest number, 158, are resident in Greater Manchester. There are 71 in West Mercia, while London has 53. Nationally 1,201 offenders are housed.

Appeal for help after spate of break-ins

POLICE are appealing for information after a number of break-ins.

A shed in the garden of a residential care home in High Street, Eastry, was broken into and a leaf collector, lawn mower and strimmer stolen.

The theft took place between 4pm on Friday, October 26, and 9.30am on Monday, October 29.

Another raid was reported to police after a break-in at a house in Minerva Road, Dover. Jewellery, DVDs, games and money were taken. The incident is thought to have happened at about 12.30am on Friday, October 26.

A basement flat in Albert Road, Dover, was broken into between 5pm on Friday and 10.50pm on Sunday, October 28.

Six hundred Embassy No1 cigarettes and five pouches of Golden Virginia tobacco were stolen.

Anyone with any information can phone police on 01304 240055.

Town hall getting its message over well

A REPORT by the Audit Commission shows that customers are at the heart of Dover District Council.

It was based on access to services and stated that the district council communicated well with residents and successfully delivered its plans.

Cllr Julie Rook, cabinet member for citizenship and consumer affairs, said: "We are pleased to have been recognised for putting customers at the heart of what we do."

Riverside proposal on reserve list as group makes bid for TV millions

■ BY MARIJKE COX

A SCHEME to get people walking and cycling in Dover is on standby after a transport project was entered into a £50 million television competition.

The Big Lottery Funds: The People's £50m contest has chosen a transport charity as a contender for the grant which could benefit the town.

Sustrans, the chosen charity, is working on a venture called Connect2, which will improve travel in 79 communities across the UK.

If it is awarded the grant, Dover's travel opportunities could be transformed.

The Dover Riverside project, which aims to open up the River Dour for pedestrians and cyclists, is one of 20 reserve schemes that could be called forward if any of the 79 others are unable to compete.

Dover Pride programme manager Richard Lawrence said: "The Dover Riverside Scheme provides a fantastic opportunity to link the seafront, town centre, schools and residential areas by providing a quality riverfront combined footway and cycle path.

Picture JON BEWLEY/SUSTRANS

FURIOUS: The Dover Riverside scheme is aiming to popularise the area with walkers and cyclists

"While we are not currently in the top 79 final schemes, our project is ready to go should we be contacted, so it is really important that people vote for Connect2 in December."

Although millions of people pass through Dover every year, not so many visit the town centre. Busy roads can also cause residents to be cut off from the seafront.

By connecting the outer parts of town to the centre and seafront, it is hoped that access will be better and a healthy lifestyle will be promoted, with more people walking and cycling.

The Sustrans initiative is supported by TV presenter Lorraine Kelly and former Home Secretary Charles Clarke.

Ken Livingstone, designer Wayne Hemingway and Adam Hart Davies are also among a number of high-profile people who support the scheme.

The Sustrans Connect2 project is one of four organisations competing for the £50m grant to be decided by public vote on ITV1 in December.

Indian restaurant makes the top 100

A POPULAR curry house in Dover has been chosen as one of the top 100 Indian restaurants in the country.

Staff at the Light of India are delighted, and manager Nurul Islam praised his team and thanked the customers who nominated them for the award.

He said: "We have been in Dover for 23 years and have won many awards. It is extremely pleasing to be able to add the British Curry Award to our collection"

When asked what his secret was for making such delicious curry, he said: "We can get all the best spices here so our curries keep getting better and better. That is why the British curry tastes so good."

The awards ceremony was held in London, with Chris Tarrant hosting the night. More than 22,000 nominations were received from members of the public for more than 3,000 restaurants.

Undercover inspections were made by a panel of judges.

The awards comprise the most prestigious event in the industry, and restaurants serving Indian, Bangladeshi, Pakistani, Sri Lankan and Nepalese food are all able to be entered.

Support services, meanwhile, came to £58,396.52.

A spokesman for the anti-social behaviour unit said: "These figures are the costs of services other than the ASBU, where they assist the ASBU in their work. Examples are environmental health."

A contribution from the Housing Revenue Account of £32,725.76 was also used to help target anti-social behaviour.

Cllr Rook said: "Money was used to tackle problems on council housing estates, for example if neighbours aren't getting along with each other and need to be moved, or if there is trouble in the housing units."

Residents, though, are still unhappy with the amount of problems in Deal over weekends.

Mrs Allen said: "I really can't see where all this money is going. Vomit in the streets and people banging on the door, it's appalling."

Despite complaints, after the unit was set up, the Home Office awarded Dover 'Action Area' status for its efforts on anti-social behaviour.

Church service to honour victims of Hellfire Corner

MORE than 63 years after bombs and shells ripped through Dover, a service is being held to honour the civilians who stood on the Home Front.

The service of remembrance and thanksgiving will commemorate all the Doverians who lost their lives in both wars of the 20th century.

It is being held on Tuesday, November 6, at 10.30am at St Mary's Church and will be conducted by Reverend David Ridley.

The idea came from Maggie Stephenson-Knight and Simon Chambers, of the Dover War Memorial Project, an initiative devoted to remembering those whose names appear on the town's war memorial.

They were then contacted by a former Doverian, John Cork, who wanted a memorial for his school friend Frederick Spinner, who was killed at the age of nine by one of the last shells to fall on the town.

A new headstone for the previously unmarked grave will be unveiled with a dedication ceremony at St Mary's Cemetery at about 12.15pm.

The remembrance service will include a thanksgiving for the people who captured the guns at Calais in September, 1944, ending the shelling over Dover.

Bombardment

Speakers at the event will include the Mayor of Dover; Colonel Cotten, of the Canadian High Commission; and those who lost loved ones in the bombardment.

Relatives of those killed in Dover are welcome at the service, which is open to all members of the public.

More than 200 civilians died from bombing and shelling, and records show 464 bombs and 2,226 shells fell on the town – statistics that gave the area the name of Hellfire Corner.

Ferry officer in the dock

THREE sailors who lost their lives may have survived if a ferry officer had not ignored evidence that his vessel may have sunk their boat, a court heard this week.

Michael Hubble, 62, of Capel-le-Ferne, near Folkestone, has denied at Winchester Crown Court manslaughter through gross negligence and engaging in conduct likely to cause death or serious injury.

The court heard that officer-of-the-watch Mr Hubble "chose to ignore" the fact that the 37,500-ton Pride of Bilbao ferry had come close to the 25ft yacht Ouzo off the Isle of Wight in August last year and did nothing to raise the alarm.

Jurors were told the ensuing lack of action led to the deaths of Jason Downer, 35, from Broadstairs, James Meaby, 36, from Tooting, south London, and Rupert Saunders, 36, also from Tooting, because they could have survived if Mr Hubble had called the captain of the P&O ship.

The trial continues.

Driver threw cup from van window

A WHITE VAN driver was fined for throwing a polystyrene cup of tea out of his window.

The van was driving through Hawkinge when the driver of the van decided to throw the cup out of his window on Tuesday, October 23, narrowly missing a man who was out enjoying a walk.

The enraged pedestrian rang the neighbourhood policing unit's PC Trevor Moody to complain about the littering.

PC Moody traced the van to a nearby depot on the same day and the driver was issued with a fixed penalty notice fine of £80 for littering.

ACTOR LOOKS OUT FOR DAVE

DAVE THE DOLPHIN has a big new fan – and his name is Michael Caine.

The actor often broke off from filming his new movie to try to glimpse Sandgate's most famous resident.

Sir Michael was filming Is There Anybody There? – a ghost film shot at London studios and on location in and around Folkestone.

An on-set source revealed: "Filming took place on the coast road between Folkestone and Hythe and he was shooting in a bus stop next to the beach. Michael seemed really intrigued – he couldn't drag himself away."

It is hoped that Dave is recovering from having a chunk of her tail fin cut away, probably by the propeller of a motor boat.

Marine vets managed to shoot her with an antibiotic dart to prevent infection, while they also removed several fishing hooks with line still attached that were piercing her back.

Is There Anybody There? is due for release next year.

Landmark rebuilt, it just needs a vine

THE reconstruction of Folkestone's historic vinery has been completed.

The Vinery on the Leas was built in the 1930s and soon became popular with London tourists.

But in recent years this vantage point over the English Channel had fallen into disrepair, with extensive damage to the glazed glass roof and the walls of the Vinery being defaced by graffiti.

Now, thanks to a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund, the Vinery has been rebuilt.

The damaged timbers have been replaced with as much of the original wood incorporated into the new structure as possible.

The glazed roof has not been replaced; instead Shepway council will be planting vines to grow on the wooden beams to provide shade.

"I'm delighted that yet another milestone in restoring our fabulous coastal park is complete," said Cllr Carol Waters, cabinet member for community regeneration.

"It is in a stunning setting and I hope that local people and visitors will come and enjoy the views.

"This is just one of the ways that we are working towards the regeneration of the area and making it a better place to live, work and visit."

Pensioners walking along The Leas were quick to tell Yourshepway that reconstruction of the Vinery was a return to Folkestone's glory days.

Beautiful

Joan Williams thought the redevelopment of the Vinery had been successful.

"Years ago it was beautiful because of all the vines across it – then it started looking slightly tatty and broken," she said. "But now that it is all fixed up it looks beautiful again."

Barry Bergin, a long-time inhabitant of Folkestone, still remembers his first memory of the Vinery:

"Way back in the early 1950s, when there were grapes hanging up on it, my father lifted me up to pick one."

"It was very sour!"

However, Mr Bergin felt that the Vinery would only be truly completed once the vines had been replanted.

"They need to plant another vine – it would be nice to see another vine back there and hopefully it won't be targeted by the local riff-raff because these old girls up here – they see a bunch of grapes and they are at them right away."

Whatever his doubts, Mr Bergin feels that efforts to regenerate the town are making a real difference.

"It is a huge project," he said. "Like nearly all seaside towns, it needs to decide where it wants to go – and try to achieve that. This is almost universal in all seaside resorts."

"The town has to figure out what its particular future is."

Unit to defend against terrorists and quakes

KENT Fire and Rescue Service is launching a new unit to deal with the threat of terrorist attacks.

The Urban Search and Rescue service (USAR) will be able to respond to a variety of scenarios, including chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear incidents.

It would also be able to deal with natural events such as the Folkestone earthquake.

The USAR team has been supplied with equipment that allows it to cut and remove concrete from collapsed buildings, as well as heavy-duty cutters, spreaders and lifting equipment that will be used to deal with large-scale traffic collisions.

It also has the 'Bob Cat', a four-wheel-drive all-terrain vehicle that will allow the team to reach disaster zones which would be inaccessible to normal fire engines.

USAR team leader John Mazzey explained

■ BY ROB LIVINGSTONE

why such a team was necessary. This really stemmed from 9/11," he said, "when the Government realised that as a country we needed to have a better capability for dealing with catastrophic structural collapses and major transport incidents.

Unique

"Kent has a long and successful record of urban search and rescue and I am extremely proud that we have been selected to be involved in this unique service."

Bill Welsh, Kent Fire and Rescue Services director of emergency planning, said: "We appreciate that disasters can happen at any time and anywhere in the world, often without warning, an example of this being the Folkestone earthquake earlier this year.

"We know that we have to be prepared for every eventuality, as well as providing a first-class local service."

He added: "He are committed to our overriding objective of making Kent a safer place to live and work."

As well as being equipped with infra-red fibre-optic cameras to locate survivors in collapsed buildings, the USAR team is being joined by Meg the spaniel and her handler Dave Hudson.

Meg is a veteran search and rescue dog, having gained experience after being deployed during the Folkestone earthquake and also sniffing out survivors in a collapsed building in London earlier this year.

The USAR team is just one of 16 spread across the United Kingdom with the aim of providing blanket cover for urban areas across the country.

Drivers arrested during weekend clampdown

MOTORISTS were targeted by police at the weekend, with arrests in Dover and Deal.

Police in Deal arrested Daniel Walford, 35, of North Barrack Road, for drink-driving on Saturday.

He was charged and released on bail and was due to appear before Folkestone magistrates yesterday (Tuesday).

Police at Whitfield roundabout near Dover arrested Geoffrey Ede, 59, of Love Lane, Faversham, on Sunday.

He was charged with drink-driving and using his vehicle without insurance, and was released on bail to answer before Folkestone magistrates on Thursday, November 8.

Sports deal will be plain sailing for our athletes

KENT has secured a £250,000 sport sponsorship deal with a ferry company.

P&O Ferries aims to develop sport in the community through a five-year deal with KCC's sport, leisure and Olympics service.

Mike Hill, KCC cabinet member for Community Services, said: "We are very pleased that P&O Ferries have pledged their support to the development of sport in Kent."

Simon Johnson, P&O Ferries sales and marketing director, said: "It's all about encouraging participation in sport at all levels of ability and ages. The countdown to the Olympics and Paralympics present a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to increase participation in sport."

QUESTION & ANSWER

BOB MARKHAM

Q How much do you think Dover has changed over the years?

A A hundred years ago, Dover was one of the busiest and most important towns in the country. Given that we are the gateway to England, within the top three world destinations for cruise ships and the world's busiest passenger port, it still is. However, Dover itself needs to benefit from these attributes as well as from its unique history through keeping more of the fleeting tourists in the town.

Q What made you want to live in Dover?

A I was actually born in Harrow and have lived in various parts of the country. I consider myself a Dovorian now, and the fact is that I came here through choice, for the reasons above, and I am very glad I did.

Q Do you find it rewarding being Mayor of Dover?

A This is my second term, and it is extremely rewarding but, as you can imagine, very hard work. It is wonderful to meet so many dedicated and enthusiastic townsfolk and local groups. Accordingly, I am engaged in some 200 or more events each year, as well as acting as chairman of the Town Council.

Q What are your favourite things about the area?

A I am passionate about cross-Channel swimming, since people come from all over the world with the dream of swimming between Dover and France. I just absolutely love the history of our town (our 2,000-year-old Pharos, standing next to a Saxon church, which is next to our 11th-century castle, for example). Above all, I love the determination and gritty realism of the people, given the many knocks Dover has had over the years, including being on the frontline of the two world wars.

Q Some people have negative opinions of Dover. Do you think this is justified?

A Absolutely not. The tabloids had a field day a few years ago concerning the mismanagement of the immigration issue. Unfortunately our every invitation to the national press to look at the positive side of the issue here was not what they wanted to write about. Dover is such a beautiful place. There is much to do and see here, so negative opinions are not justified.

Q Are there any changes that you would like to see happen in Dover?

A Yes, of course. There are many things that need improving. We would like to see real policemen on the beat, less litter and less anti-social behaviour, but these problems are not unique to Dover. There are great plans for redevelopment, to include the high-speed rail link and the innovative work scheduled for the town centre. I just wish I could wave a wand, so that this regeneration were already completed.

Q Do you feel that you have achieved a lot in your position as mayor?

A Without being overly modest, I feel I have contributed my bit. No mayor worth his salt would ever believe he had achieved a lot, since achievement is an ongoing process. I am, however, pleased to be in the mayoral role at the moment so that I can help to take Dover that step further.

Q What do you do in your spare time?

A My interests are local and family history, which I am researching. However, as you can imagine, there is very little spare time at the moment. When you take the office of mayor, a lot of commitments follow.

In Dover, apart from the many civic functions, the mayor is also leader of the council. Accordingly, I chair some 10 full town council meetings during my year.

There are more than 200 mayoral engagements that I undertake during my year. I also try to be active as a ward councillor, contributing what I can. In reality, during the municipal year, there is little spare time, so personal life is on hold.

Q What are your favourite things about being mayor of a town such as Dover?

A I enjoy all the activities. Dover has enormous potential. If, in some small way, my efforts can help in moving Dover forward, then it is that striving that I enjoy most.

Dover mayor Bob Markham talks to Marijke Cox about the part he plays in making the most of the town's enormous potential as the gateway to England and, of course, the world's busiest port

furniture for life

The latest plasma screens have revolutionised television viewing, but the sheer size of these enormous units means they tend to dominate their environment. The answer to the problem comes in the form of magnificent, elevating cabinets which will definitely enhance rather than detract from your living space. The cabinets are available in traditional mahogany and yew as well as the latest contemporary natural oak. Your DVD player and VCR are stowed beneath the television and there is ample storage for DVDs and cassettes – and all hidden away behind the elegant veneered doors. The television itself is raised up by an ingenious, virtually silent mechanism operated by remote control. # Investment helps beat off the credit crunch

BY SIMON ROBINSON

REGENERATION and expansion projects across Kent have helped stave off a disastrous 'credit crunch' – leaving the county's property market in a healthy condition.

The positive outlook was presented in the annual Kent Property Market Report, unveiled at a breakfast event at the new Princes Park stadium in Dartford.

The report noted the effect of town redevelopment schemes and increased transport links across the county.

It is thought such investment in the county has kept Kent's medium- to long-term prospects stable in the face of global concerns over the build-up of debt in the UK and America.

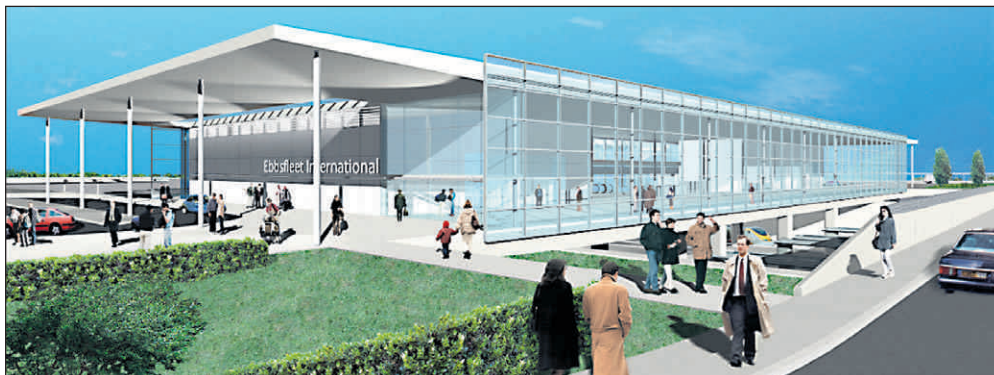

Opening the breakfast meeting on Thursday, the county council's regeneration chief, Roger Gough, said: "The regeneration across Kent is providing a major boost to the county."

"There are also many more developments planned, including transport links that will open Kent up to the wider national and international markets."

"This report highlights the progress being made and the potential going forward. Working with organisations such as Locate in Kent, we are committed to helping businesses maximise the potential of the area and seize the opportunities presented in the coming years."

The report suggests that the billion-pound investment in Kent's major redevelopment projects had filtered through to smaller businesses.

At Chatham Maritime two office buildings were sold for more than £20 million; in Ashford, Quadrant Estates completed the office development of Northdown at Eureka Park with almost 1,600 sq m sold; and the expanding Kings Hill site at West Malling

PLATFORM: The imminent opening of Ebbsfleet international station will make Kent more accessible to London and the Continent experienced a flurry of activity, with almost 20,000 sq m of transactions agreed.

Established business parks across the county have seen considerable expansion, while office rental growth as a whole has maintained a stable position compared with elsewhere in the South East during the last 10 years.

Bill Siegle, the head of Cluttons commercial division, which presented the report, said: "Transport links and developments in the Thames Gateway have been the catalysts for the area's regeneration and we are seeing good levels of investment across the county."

"Developments at business parks including Chatham Maritime and Eureka Park in Ashford, and new facilities in Folkestone, Dover and Margate are just a handful of examples. These are exciting times for Kent."

Survival

Paul Wookey, chief executive of Locate in Kent, said: "Growth in employees in Kent between 1998 and 2005 was more than 15 per cent, compared with 9.8 per cent in the South East and 8.8 per cent in the UK."

"VAT registrations in Kent are above South East and UK figures, as are survival rates of new companies."

"The report shows there is a good supply of office space at affordable prices. We expect the demand for offices to increase – and we are ready and able to service this demand."

Increased transport links will further stabilise the property market by making Kent more accessible to both London and the Continent.

The imminent opening of Ebbsfleet international station will launch new services across the South East and beyond.

With the start of new high-speed domestic services in 2009, it will take just 17 minutes to travel from Ebbsfleet international to London St Pancras, 37 minutes from Ashford, and just over an hour from Folkestone to the City.

The level of business activity has had a knock-on effect in the retail, leisure and tourism sectors, with spending steadily improving throughout 2006 and into this year.

Developments in these areas are under way, with plans for hotels to be built in Folkestone, Canterbury and Rochester; a leisure complex at Westwood Cross in Thanet which includes a cinema, bingo and casino centre; and new restaurants and a mixed-use development at Folkestone harbour.

Simple measures to help keep your children safe

ROAD safety chiefs have urged parents to warn their children of the increased danger of walking or cycling as the evenings get darker.

Ringway, Kent County Council's highways maintenance company, said youngsters should always wear or carry something bright which will show up in car headlights now that the clocks have gone back.

Dave Campbell, the company's health and safety manager, said: "The autumn and winter months are traditionally the times of year when the number of road accidents involving children peaks. There are a number of very simple measures children can take to ensure their safety – the most basic of which is to ensure that can easily be seen in the dark or bad weather."

He added that they should also always use pedestrian and zebra crossings, subways and footbridges – as children often cross in dangerous places rather than walk a few extra metres to a dedicated crossing.

Mr Campbell said: "Councils invest significant amounts of money in installing and maintaining crossings close to schools and it is vital that children understand the importance of using them to protect themselves."

Ringway is offering free reflective wristbands to our readers. Phone Steve Kidd on 01403 215859, or email info@ringway.co.uk.

KCC media man to leave after 27 years of service

KENT County Council's most senior media advisor, Gerry Moore, has announced he is leaving the authority after 27 years in his post.

The corporate communications manager said: "After nearly three decades with the county council I have decided it is time to look for a fresh challenge."

Mr Moore, 55, who lives near Ashford, worked very closely with Lord Bruce-Lockhart during his leadership of KCC but denied his departure was due to personality clashes with the new regime at County Hall under Paul Carter.

The authority appointed a new deputy to Mr Moore earlier this year – Marcus Chrysostomou, who had worked with Alastair Campbell at the Downing Street press office.

DOVER SHOPPING

Football Manager 2008 puts you to the test

WANT to follow in the footsteps of Sir Alex Ferguson, Arsene Wenger and Jose Mourinho? Then get braced for the latest instalment of the perennially popular Football Manager franchise.

The 2008 version of the award-winner hit the shelves in recent days, with stores across the district looking to lure shoppers in to snap up the highly addictive game. With a recommended retail price of £29.99, it's worth shopping around for the best deal – and then put those skills to work in the transfer market.

Supermarket to slash prices for Christmas

ASDA hopes to cash in on the usual Christmas shopping frenzy by lowering its prices.

Consumers in the UK are expected to spend more than £11.8 billion in the run-up to this year's festivities, but research shows most households are actually tightening their belts at this time of year.

So the supermarket chain is slashing the cost of Christmas essentials, including groceries, clothing, toys and gifts.

Get both barrels from Brazil at Waterstone's

FOOTBALL and broadcasting legend Alan Brazil will be appearing at Bluewater on Thursday, November 8.

He will be signing copies of his hilarious new book, Both Barrels From Brazil: My War Against The Numpties, at Waterstone's from 6pm to 7pm. It's the follow-up to last year's bestseller There's An Awful Lot of Bubbly in Brazil.

If you can't make the signing, you can reserve a signed copy by calling the store on 01322 624831.

The Book Club Bible is essential for readers

BOOK group members might want to consult a new guide before parting with their hard-earned cash.

Fed up with struggling to choose new novels for her own group, Ana Sampson from Tonbridge decided to compile The Book Club Bible.

The guide, priced at £7.99, features synopses (without plot spoilers), background information and discussion points for 100 good reads and promises to be an invaluable aid for keen readers.

Campaign designed to make a green impact

SUPERMARKET giant Tesco is hoping a new push to highlight its green credentials will help boost trade further.

Its Greener Living campaign on its official website highlights what it is doing to protect the environment as well as passing on useful tips and hints to its customers.

The site also includes activities for parents to share with their children to ensure the next generation think about the world around them. Access the site at www.tesco.com/greenerliving.

Win a pair of tickets to the Look Good Feel Good Show

WITH the winter drawing in, suntans fading and Christmas looming, the feel-good factor is fast dwindling away.

But that needn't be the case as the Look Good Feel Good show in Chatham on Saturday and Sunday, November 17-18, organised by KOS Media, has the solution... in fact, it has hundreds of solutions supplied by more than 100 exhibitors.

And you can be there for free by winning one of 10 pairs of tickets we have to give away.

This new show will take place at Big Blue, Chatham, opposite St Mary's Island and a short walk from Dickens World, and the Dockside Outlet Centre.

Look Good Feel Good will cover a range of subjects including fashion, jewellery, hair, beauty, fitness, health and well-being, plus an exceptional food hall offering a variety of delicacies and much more besides.

Over the two days there will be demonstrations, entertainment, free samples, competitions and a host of Christmas ideas, as well as a special zone for the children which will include a magician and face-painting.

Admission is only £3.50, and free for children 14 and under; there is also ample parking.

We are offering the chance to win 10 pairs of tickets for both days of the show.

To enter, simply answer the question below and send your entry on a postcard, along with your email address (if applicable), name, address and daytime telephone number to Look Good Feel Good competition, KOS Media, Apple Barn, Smeeth, Ashford, Kent TN25 6SR. Closing date is November 12, 2007.

QUESTION: In which Kent town is the Look Good Feel Good Show taking place?

You can also text your answer to 81800, by sending LGFG, followed by a space, the answer, a space and your name and address.

LADY IN WAITING

66yr old young-at-heart,

yourdoverblogger

Each week we get a mystery writer to air their views on living in Dover...

Beware of granny or she'll run you down in the street

SINCE the birth of the mobility scooter, the days of mooching around Dover without a care in the world are over.

Instead, an obstacle course beckons, with little old ladies sitting in their contraptions ready to take on the world.

Just the other day I was, I admit, paying no attention to where I was going and suddenly I'm face-to-face with an 80-year-old in a mobility scooter.

Her eyes gleam and she smiles; I think I hear Road to Hell playing in the background, although it could be my imagination. Then out from behind her comes her partner in crime.

What's even worse about this particular scooter is that it's surrounded by what can only be described as a giant plastic rain hat: I can't see her and she most definitely cannot see me.

She pulls forward and as I swiftly duck to the left she catches my leg on her wheel and tuts at me for being in the way.

The pair of them then pootle off down the road, hitting anyone who dares step in their path.

I'm not heartless enough to say that they shouldn't be able to drive them, but trying to walk down the high street is sometimes more trouble than it's worth.

This can be said for many towns in Kent and we are probably very lucky with Dover in that it has a pedestrian area wide enough for us and all the Nigel Mansells out there.

But what chance do you have of getting from A to B when there are scooters stopping and starting in front of you, or – even worse – in front of your car?

I know I should respect my elders, but there comes a time when this should be reciprocated. After all, how many times have we sat behind them at 23 miles an hour, already late for work and swearing like Gordon Ramsay?

I was in the supermarket the other day when a man drove in on his scooter. It was mildly amusing to start with; then, when he got hooked on a bread display and proceeded to drag it around the shop, it was You've Been Framed magic. But the worrying thing was that he didn't even notice.

It was only when a kind young girl – the only person who wasn't on the floor in hysterics – unhooked him that he realised there was a problem.

Obviously this was an extreme and quite humorous case, but I've heard horror stories of the elderly rolling their scooters on their sides or even driving on to dual carriageways.

Kent Mobility has done a great job, and it's fantastic that the elderly can get around easily, but I really think it should have a vetting system or maybe lessons for us on how to avoid the scooter riders from Hell.

TALK TIME

STEPHEN JONES

The headmaster of Dover College talks about his love for the history of the town and what he would do to improve it

What is your favourite thing about Dover?

I am particularly fond of the history of the place – the Castle, the Western Heights, the Victorian terraces and the Priory of St Martin, of course. As a sailor I am particularly keen on the sea, too, as well as the maritime (and military) history. There is so much here that is so good historically and architecturally, and only a small fraction of bad buildings. It really is great place with tons of potential.

Do you think there is enough for young people to do in the area?

Yes, I think there probably is. I believe strongly that we should encourage young people to be involved in a range of worthwhile activities, sport particularly, and Dover is very well off, with football, rugby, cricket, sailing, rowing and swimming clubs, as well as a plethora of minor sports. On the cultural and artistic side there are plenty of opportunities for drama and music here, too, either via the schools or through various groups. On the down side, although there are some quite good shops, we could do with a little more to attract the young. It is important to keep some vibrancy as well as smartness in the town centre.

Is there anything you would like to see changed in Dover?

We would all like to see Burlington House pulled down and access across Townwall Street to Marine Parade improved – in fact, I believe both of these outcomes are likely. Also, as I implied above, I think our stock of shops could be improved, with some smarter outlets being available – something I'm sure will happen in time.

YOUR LETTERS

Caine's film set is so last century

What a boost for Folkestone that Michael Caine's latest movie is being shot here.

The only trouble is, I saw from last week's article that the town was meant to emulate Hull in the 1980s.

Maybe that is telling us something about the architecture we have here – distinctly last century.

Moira Webster
Folkestone

Memorial cash thief is a disgrace

I was sickened to read in last week's Yourshepway about the theft from the charity box at the Battle of Britain memorial.

This is one of the most attractive memorials to the heroes of World War Two in the country, with replica planes, a wall of names and a magnificent sculpture.

I frequently pay it a visit – not least because of its spectacular location on top of the cliffs.

It is also free – and the collection box pays for its upkeep.

Whoever stole the cash given by equally appreciative visitors is a disgrace.

Neil Harper
Dover

Off our radio airwaves, Jeremy

Last week Yourshepway carried a story on chat show host Jeremy Kyle and his new programme on Invicta FM.

These irritating so-called shock-jocks have no place on a radio show which is meant to appeal to the whole family.

Get lost Jeremy!

Christmas tinsel is just not cricket

Am I alone in wondering exactly why Debenhams in Folkestone has a Christmas display in its front window?

We haven't even got Halloween out of the way yet and it's already tinsel and crackers all over the place.

Christmas shopping and celebrations should take place in December or soon we'll have the first fake snow while the cricket season is still in place.

Sylvia Hooks
Folkestone

Hess goal is start of good things

Good to see Andy Hessenthaler getting on the scoresheet for Dover.

As a fan I expected him to do great things on the field and this goal against Maldon – which meant a good win – could be the start.

Come on, the Hess!

Miles Dore

Changes must preserve history

Too often the plight of asylum seekers is completely ignored in a national media which seems to want to paint them in the worst possible light.

So well done to Yourdover for running a story last week about five of these unfortunate people who were apparently gassed by

“Will SureSlim help me correct my metabolism so that I will lose weight quickly, safely and permanently?”

Wow! Look at me now!

I dropped 3 dress sizes in just 6 weeks.

I liked all the wrong foods especially crisps and nuts, and my weight kept creeping up and up. I wasn't happy being a size 18 but crash dieting only made me put on more weight.

I had tried a slimming club, but didn't like the group element and their food plans didn't fit in with my social life.

When SureSlim got the results of my blood test, it confirmed that I had high levels of glucose in my system, which made me more hungry than I should have been, subsequently I was over-eating. SureSlim then drew up a food plan based on what would work for me.

The first week I struggled, wondering how I would cope without milk in my tea, but by week two I wasn't even thinking about it.

I've not just lost the weight either – I've also lost the over-whelming feeling of tiredness that I used to have.

I was comfort eating as I was stressed in my job and the weight just crept up. That's when I realised I had to do something. Once I started on the plan to my amazement I lost 10 pounds in the first 10 days!

And now I've reached my goal weight in I can happily wear my little blue dress!

New nightclub plans are overdue

I would like to raise a complaint via Yourshepway about the shabbiness of the nightspots in Folkestone.

They are some of the most unappealing place I have ever been to and the atmosphere inside them is terrible.

I read recently that those along the front are scheduled to be demolished to make way for new developments.

Well, to my mind, that cannot come quickly enough.

We need housing for local people

The news that a development of homes is to be built on land at Connaught Barracks is welcome indeed.

But let us hope they are on offer at a price which can be afforded by the many local people who are first-time buyers but struggle to obtain properties cheap enough to stay in the town in which they were born and raised.

Celebrate our young people's successes

The media is filled daily with negative stories of today's youth, but little is ever heard of or written about their achievements.

I want to draw attention to a campaign which, refreshingly, focuses solely on the outstanding contributions and accomplishments of young people across the UK.

BT's Seen and Heard Awards highlight and recognise the positive differences young people can make in today's society and celebrate their success.

Across the nation, young people of all ages are involved in activities or projects that are helping their communities and these efforts are often not recognised.

The BT Seen and Heard Awards provide a platform from which young people can shout about their achievements.

The 14 winning entries cover a range of important issues, from bullying to homelessness.

The young people in each project used a range of methods, from artistic representation to political campaigning, to communicate their message and bring about meaningful change.

The project forms part of BT's Better World Campaign, which aims to give every young person a voice.

More information on these winning entries is available on the website at www.btbetterworld.com. I urge your readers to log on and learn more about these awards.

It is time for change; by concentrating only on the bad, we forget the good.

Health and safety loonies at large

As a person who feels extremely strongly about the pernicious influence of the health and safety brigade on British life, one recent incident stood out as being beyond belief.

According to one group, children should not wear studs in their football boots during matches as they may trip over on them.

How ridiculous can you get?

The whole point of studs in football boots is to grip the pitch and prevent the player from falling over. Quite obviously the health and safety loonies have never played the beautiful game.

We need to see more of the light, not less

The dark evenings we are experiencing after the clocks were changed are totally depressing.

Why not keep the hours of British summertime – or even add another hour's daylight in June, July and August?

From a role in the nation's favourite soap to the iconic Sybil Fawltly, Prunella Scales has endeared herself to the British public

Street paved way for success

ONE of Prunella Scales's earliest ambitions as an actress was to land a hunky love interest in Coronation Street.

Since then she has become one of Britain's best-loved and most talented performers, but Scales still remembers those early days in the 1960s.

"I was in two episodes very early on, playing a bus conductress," she recalled. "I hoped my character would get Harry Hewitt as a boyfriend, but she didn't."

Failing to win Harry's affections might have been a good thing for the young lady as he was later crushed to death by a van. It certainly didn't affect Scales's career and she has never looked back since treading the famous cobbles.

Born in Surrey in June 1932, Prunella Margaret Rumney Illingworth was classically trained at the Old Vic Theatre School in London and the Herbert Berghof Studio in New York.

Her career has spanned television, radio, film and theatre. She won the Patricia Rothermere Award at the 2001 London Evening Standard Theatre Awards and in 1992 was awarded the CBE for services to drama.

GERTRUDE'S SECRET

Sunday, November 11
Trinity Theatre, Tunbridge Wells

Her latest theatre role sees Scales playing the title character in Gertrude's Secret, a collection of monologues by Benedick West.

Gertrude is waiting for her daughter to call on her birthday, but her offspring is likely to get more than she bargained for.

Scales said: "Benedick is my cousin once removed by marriage, but that doesn't have anything to do with it. I would have done it anyway because it's very clever."

"The monologues are all ingenious and entertaining. It's quite funny and, I think, quite frightening."

Audiences were hugely tickled by probably Scales's most famous character, the unforgettable Sybil Fawltly.

As John Cleese's nagging wife in the beloved BBC show Fawlty Towers, Scales brilliantly booked her place in the nation's comedy hall of fame. More than 30 years after the two series were first broadcast she could have grown tired of talking about Sybil. But Fawltly Towers still has a place in her heart.

"I'm very proud and grateful to it. The lovely thing about Fawltly Towers is that when you look at it again, it hasn't lost speed," she said.

Better still, as far as Scales was concerned, it raised awareness of her work in the theatre.

She said: "If the British public have enjoyed you on television it can be a great advantage."

"When you've been in a popular show they remember you and will actually take the giant step from the pavement into the theatre."

She has been married to fellow actor Timothy West for 45 years and they have two sons, Samuel and Joe. Samuel has also entered the thespian world and will have received the advice Scales would offer to any young actor.

"You always tell them to save a third of what they earn," she said. "Then they can pay the mortgage, but it also gives them the chance to turn down bad work."

Gertrude's Secret starts at 8pm and tickets cost £15/£12. To book, phone the box office on 01892 678678 or visit www.trinitytheatre.net.

JOE BROWN

Saturday, November 17
Leas Cliff Hall, Folkestone

THE undisputed daddy of rock'n'roll, Joe Brown, will be showing off his superb guitar skills in Folkestone.

Brown, the pioneer of British guitarists, will be joined by special guest and personal hero Dave Edmunds.

Having inspired everyone from George Harrison to Jeff Beck and Mark Knopfler, Brown needs little introduction.

He is well-known for his fantastic shows and he continues his tradition of wonderful playing and great harmonising with regular band the Bruvvers, who include his record-producing son Pete on this tour.

Brown has a wide-ranging appeal with his latest CD, Down To Earth, demonstrating his love of all things roots and rhythmic.

His spectacular performances at the Glastonbury and Trowbridge festivals and on the George Harrison tribute show proved just what a guitar legend he is.

Dave Edmunds, also a true British icon, lit up the charts with songs such as Queen of Hearts and I Hear You Knocking while still finding time to work with stars like Paul McCartney, Eric Clapton and the Everly Brothers. The show starts at 8pm.

Tickets cost £21/£19. To book, phone the box office on 0870 4000 890, or visit the website at www.leascliffhall.co.uk.

JOHN HUMPHRYS

Sunday, November 4
Folkestone Academy

BEST-SELLING author and national treasure John Humphrys will be taking part in this weekend's Folkestone Literary Festival.

The broadcaster tackled what is perhaps the most controversial subject of all during his Radio Four series, Humphrys In Search of God, which explored the huge issue of faith. It prompted the biggest audience reaction to any programme in Humphrys's 40-year career and inspired a book based on his experiences.

Humphrys will explain the personal journey he undertook and will argue that doubt is the only credible belief to have.

In God We Doubt: Confessions of a Failed Atheist starts at 1.30pm and tickets cost £9/£8. The talk is just one of many events taking place during the festival, which runs from Thursday, November 2, to Saturday, November 10. For details about the full programme of talks, screenings and activities, or to book tickets, phone 01303 842192, or visit www.folkestonelitfest.co.uk.

ON GENERAL RELEASE

SAW IV (18)

TWISTED Jigsaw and his apprentice Amanda are dead, but their legacy of terror continues. Detective Hoffman takes charge of the investigation into the murder of Detective Kerry, one of the key officers in apprehending Jigsaw. The police face one final game when SWAT Commander Rigg is abducted and thrust into a maze of Jigsaw's fiendish traps.

SICKO (12A)

CONTROVERSIAL documentary film-maker Michael Moore turns his attention to the US healthcare crisis, making clear his disdain for a system where people literally have to pay to live. Full of scathing wit, fascinating and utterly engrossing, as long as you take this large spoonful of cinematic medicine with a generous pinch of salt.

THE DARK IS RISING (12A)

AN adaptation of the second book in Susan Cooper's epic fantasy series, which plunges a 14-year old boy into the middle of a titanic battle between good and evil. Will discovers he is the last of a group of warriors who have dedicated their lives to fighting the forces of the Dark. Travelling back and forth through time, Will discovers a series of clues which lead him to a showdown with forces of unimaginable power.

Viggo's walk on wild side

■ BY EILEEN CONDON

IF you're looking for the definition of a brave actor then look no further than Viggo Mortensen. Not only does the Lord Of The Rings star perform one of the most graphic and violent fight scenes in his latest movie, he does it completely starkers.

What's more, it was entirely his decision to brawl bare in gangster flick Eastern Promises. "The scene takes place in a steam bath where I get attacked by two guys so it would have been silly to have a towel on," explains Viggo. "This is a realistic and gritty movie so to have a scene where you're trying to avoid seeing someone's body would have been just dumb," he said.

Directed by David Cronenberg, Viggo adds that he couldn't have done the scene without the controversial film-maker.

"I also worked with him on A History of Violence and feel very safe with him," he added. "We understand each other."

The fight scene further establishes Viggo's reputation as one of the most fearless actors around. Not content with baring all for the camera, the star, who has just turned 49, also took on the might of the Russian Mafia for the movie.

In the film, Viggo plays the mysterious Russian-born Nikolai Luzhin, a driver for one of London's organised crime families. His carefully maintained existence is suddenly turned upside down when his path crosses with Anna (Naomi Watts), a midwife trying to find out the background of a Russian teenager who died giving birth.

VIEW THIS PREVIEW

yourkenttv.co.uk

Though the film is shot on location in London, Viggo took himself off to Russia for several weeks, where he learned the language and met some of the country's most disreputable mob men.

The committed actor also spent a painstaking four hours in make-up having 43 temporary tattoos transferred onto his body, ranging from a tiger, stars, skulls, daggers, a scorpion, a sailing ship, the Virgin Mary and a huge crucifix emblazoned across his chest.

"Some of the tattoos were humorous and some were quite poetic," said Viggo. "On the instep of my right foot one said 'Where are you going?' on the instep of the other foot another said 'What the hell do you care?'"

Despite his huge success, not to mention sex symbol status, Viggo is still one of the most reclusive movie stars around.

Rarely seen on the red carpet, the actor lives

ROLE PLAY: In his new film Eastern Promises, actor Viggo Mortensen bares all in a violent fight scene in a steam bath away from the limelight on a vast ranch, where his 18-year-old son Henry from his marriage to singer Exene Cervenka is a regular visitor.

Viggo even managed to maintain his closely guarded privacy after his phenomenal success as Aragorn in Lord of the Rings, and remains typically laid back about the life-changing role.

"I think I just got lucky," he said of the epic trilogy.

And though he's no doubt busy immersing himself on other worlds in preparation for future roles, the enigmatic star hasn't ruled out the possibility of Aragorn's return.

"I heard talk of a Hobbit film and, yes I'm curious about it," he said. "I don't know where Aragorn would fit into that, but if it happens then Peter Jackson would be the best person to direct it."

Thailand's creature comforts

BY CAROLINE GAMMELL

NOT only was it my first time as an artist's assistant, but my master had a worldwide reputation to uphold – and he just happened to be an elephant.

Deep in the jungles of northern Thailand, I was handing over paints to a 17ft Asian elephant called Kongkam, who created a subliminal piece in a matter of minutes.

The finished piece of work was the most treasured memento gathered during an eight-day trip to Thailand.

Far from the gimmick I feared it might be, a day at Maesa Elephant Camp, near Chiang Mai, was simply wonderful.

After an hour of stroking and patting the assembled elephants and learning how to sit on these massive creatures without tumbling off, we embarked on a stroll up the steep muddy hill which offered spectacular views of the surrounding countryside.

After a day of getting mucky at the camp, it was time to return to our nearby solace of decadence – the Mandarin Oriental Devi Dhara.

Spread over 60 acres, this recently completed $80 million hotel was quite something.

The concept is that of an ancient city – in microcosm – one you cross a moat and pass through high walls to enter.

The ornate temples and Lanna influenced Thai structures have been painstakingly recreated and are incredibly impressive.

IMPRESSIVE SURROUNDINGS: The Mandarin Oriental Devi Dhara is a $80 million hotel spread out over 60 acres Rooms vary from colonial style suites overlooking the pool to the more traditional Thai villas which look out over the hotel's own paddy fields. Some even have their own swimming pools.

The whole set up is undoubtedly impressive but feels slightly surreal, a million miles from the chaos of Chiang Mai, a few miles down the road. The opulence is fabulous, but it is nice to get out and about and spend at least one evening in town.

Having said that, the food in Le Grand

Lanna could be enough to keep you within the hotel, with its subtle flavours and delicacies.

One of the hotel's highlights is the Dheva spa, set on its own in the grounds and offering a spectacular array of treatments.

Spas are something Thailand's best hotels do very well. At our second location, the Sila Evason Hideaway on the island of Ko Samui, you can have your treatment in the open air, looking out to sea and listening to the waves as you enjoy a deep tissue massage.

Each room has a stunning view looking out across the Gulf of Siam and the other islands nearby. In fact, everywhere you go on the 20-acre site has a spectacular outlook.

The rooms themselves cannot be faulted. Each one is split-level and most have an infinity pool where you can splash about, again admiring the view.

Thailand is a place of contrasts and nowhere is that more apparent than moving from the laid-back islands to the frenetic pace of Bangkok.

The city, home to nine million people, is hectic, dirty, noisy and centred along the snaking Chao Praya river. It feels busy with people scurrying about their daily lives, while tourists gawp at the stunning Grand Palace and take advantage of the excellent shopping.

We stayed at the Peninsula Hotel, perched on the river, and enjoyed some of the best Thai food of the trip.

I went to Thailand with many pre-conceived and rather stereotypical ideas about what I would find. It surpassed them all and, a little heavier, I returned to the UK ready to plan my next trip.

YOUR WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY RUSSELL GRANT

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)

TAKE care not to fritter away your time on useless activities or you could miss a romantic opportunity. Ask a group of friends to help promote your creative efforts. You've got great instincts when it comes to things that hit a nerve with the public. Applying to a school or arranging a trip abroad is highly favoured.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)

RESIST the urge to buy someone's affection. What this person really wants is your time and affection. Support your partner's desire to go into a more creative field. You could be given a plum assignment, too, allowing you to showcase your interpersonal skills. Make it your mission to give people the care you always want, but rarely get.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)

A VACATION may prove more expensive than you realise. It may be better to choose a less luxurious destination. Working from home could put some extra money in your pocket. Discuss the possibility with your boss. If you're looking for love, you could find it at a large institution like a government office, hospital, or university.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 22)

DON'T get swept up in a buying frenzy with a friend or you could drive yourself deep into debt. Borrowing or lending money isn't advised, either. Your star power puts you in contact with some influential people. A relative could give you a generous gift of money. Trust your instincts when it comes to household matters.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)

IT feels like a loved one is taking you for granted. It's probably because you've been spending so much time at work. You've got to adjust your schedule so that it reflects your true priorities. Talk to your boss about working from home or assuming a less prominent role. A stalled tax refund or inheritance could finally come through.

GEMINI (May 22 - Jun 22)

DWELLING on disappointments from the past could undermine a close relationship. Organising your household will make it easier to go about your daily business. Don't be afraid to get rid of the clutter. Enlist the aid of a Virgo if you're not sure where to begin. You're looking forward to some time away. Make time for a movie or play.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sep 23)

YOU can't afford to postpone family responsibilities any longer. People are relying on you to run some errands or provide childcare. Put your needs aside for the sake of others who have helped you in the past. Adopting a hardworking attitude will make it easier to learn new skills. This week is ideal for launching salary talks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23 - Dec 21)

AN authority figure's generosity may not be enough to protect you from criticism. Do your best to play by the rules this week, even if you've been given a pass in the past. Letting someone else take the credit for your efforts could ultimately work in your favour. A spiritual book or movie acts like a salve on your troubled soul.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

YOU could face challenges at work this week. If you feel like you're out of your element, ask for additional training. Your drive and determination enhances your sex appeal. Getting involved with a group of spiritually-minded people makes you more compassionate. Reach out to a business or romantic partner who needs your support.

CANCER (Jun 23 - Jul 23)

SAYING one thing and doing another could undermine your reputation. Be especially careful about promising things before they become available. Your creative juices are flowing and may prompt you to take an art class. Don't be surprised if you feel sparks between you and your instructor. Be sure to attend to household bills and chores.

LIBRA (Sep 24 - Oct 23)

BEWARE of blurting out a secret, or you could do irreparable damage to a friendship. If somebody asks for your honest opinion, give it. Assuming a thankless job could put you in line for a bonus. Pour on the charm when dealing with a love interest. Just when you thought your fairy-tale idea of romance was fading, someone sweeps you off your feet.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 - Jan 20)

YOU may underestimate the time it takes to deal with a hospital, university, or house of worship. If you need to get an official document from such a place, go armed with plenty of different forms of identification. Your extensive knowledge and experience make you a natural leader of a group. Take care to enforce the rules.

Beeny knows the best way to climb the ladder

■ BY ANDY WELCH

"THIS might sound terrible," says Sarah Beeny. "But when I say to someone 'keep the colours neutral', it's because they have terrible taste!"

It's just one of the little nuggets of truth the presenter and homes guru throws into the conversation when talking about Property Ladder. She's certainly had enough time to collect some anecdotes too, the hugely successful Channel 4 series has been in almost full-time production since 2001.

And now it is back on Tuesday nights with the first of the new series airing last night.

There are no signs of Sarah getting tired of the format, however, as she is more excited about the new series than any of the past offerings. The main reason is the unusual conversions which make up many of the renovation projects.

"Every year, the shows really do get better," she said. "When I think back to the first couple of series, they were fairly unexciting developments. They were fun at the time, of course, but it was all pretty conventional stuff, and obvious."

"This series has some more unusual properties. I've got a lot more to say about them as well, new things to say, as we haven't done these types of houses on the show before."

Regardless of what the development is, though, the Reading-native maintains the principles of all property renovation remain the same.

"I think in any business, the ultimate goal has to be profit. Any business that takes its eye off the bottom line will go bust. You hear that time and time again."

"Profit has to drive everything you do, but that's not to say it's the only thing that matters."

ON THE GO: Property Ladder presenter Sarah Beeny has also set up an online dating site called mysinglefriend.com

You also must enjoy the process of making the profit and enjoy the product," she said.

As well as revealing a number of truths about the show – Sarah likes some developers a lot more than others, doesn't understand why people attempt renovations on limited budgets and questions some of the decisions made – there are also a number of misconceptions about the programme that she's only too happy to put straight.

"People always say no-one listens to my advice on the programme, but they do, you just don't see or notice it. If someone is agreeing with me or doing something well, then it isn't an issue and we don't talk about it. I'm not going to keep asking someone whether they're agreeing with me or not!"

Also, contrary to popular belief, Sarah is not constantly with child. She can go from her normal svelte self to looking like she's seconds away from birth in the space of a scene, but that's due to the way in which the shows are filmed. They're made over the course of a year, sometimes more, capturing the presenter at different stages of her two pregnancies.

"Yes, it looks like I'm always pregnant. I can't believe I've only got two," she said. "It feels like I've got about six from watching the shows back. But certain developments go better together in a programme than others, so the bosses choose different ones."

Away from Property Ladder, which is basically an extension of her day job as a practising property developer (along with her husband and brother, she owns a development company), Sarah is a keen matchmaker to her friends.

This later turned into another job when she and a group of friends set up mysinglefriend.com, an online dating site where friends describe their single pals, rather than having singletons describing themselves.

It's now a well-known, established site, but it could see Sarah becoming the new Cilla when she fronts a dating show next year.

"We did a pilot last year, but it wasn't particularly successful," she says. "We're up and running again now though, so watch this space. Dating show formats are hard to come up with and are inevitably compared to Blind Date, but we think we've found the amber nectar."

PROPERTY NEWS

Lords ruling teaches important land lessons

A HOUSE OF LORDS case has highlighted the importance of leaving nothing to chance when buying a property.

It confirmed the 2006 decision of the Court of Appeal that when a piece of land is landlocked (it has no right of access over adjoining land so cannot be lawfully accessed by its owner), there is no automatic right to have a right of way 'of necessity' over adjoining land.

The case involved land bought from a landowner who had originally retained it when he sold adjoining land to the council.

The landowner had failed to negotiate any right of access across the land sold, leaving the retained land landlocked.

Since at the time of the original sale there had been no common intention there should be a right of access over the land sold, the Lords declined to grant a right of way.

Nicholas Kingsley Smith, of Kingsley Smith Solicitors LLP, said: "This case illustrates how important it is to be careful when dealing with transactions in land. The absence of the right to access the land means that to access his land, the landowner will need to negotiate from a position of considerable weakness with one of the adjoining landowners to secure a right of way."

First-time buyers given great deal from Barratt

DREAM START allows first-time buyers to purchase a new home for just 75 per cent of the purchase price. The remaining 25 per cent is deferred, without interest or rent, for up to 10 years or until the house is resold. Importantly, the buyer owns 100 per cent of the property.

To help first-time buyers more, no deposit is required and Barratt pays the stamp duty and legal fees up to £1,000. Carpets and kitchen appliances are included within the price.

Ann Moriarty, sales director at Barratt Kent, said: "I understand the difficulties that young people face in buying their new home. Opportunities like Dream Start can make a real difference. We can only offer a limited number of homes at each site under Dream Start and the last time Barratt ran this scheme we were overwhelmed by requests."

Dream Start is available on selected one- and two-bedroom apartments and three-bedroom houses at five Barratt developments in Kent: Riverside Plaza in Maidstone; Leybourne Park in Aylesford; West Hill Park in Dartford; Eden Village in Sittingbourne; and Connaught Park in Tunbridge Wells.

BONE OF CONTENTION: The controversial Home Improvement Packs have come under attack from Conservative MPs, who say that the documents don't work effectively

HIPS group attacks Tory 'scaremongering'

■ BY TIM JOHNSON

PROPERTY market experts have hit back at Conservative claims that the new home improvement packs (HIPS) are not working.

They say claims that trials have shown the documents can be used to conceal information are false.

Mike Ockenden, director-general of the Association of Home Information Pack Providers, launched the broadside this week.

He said: "The Conservatives are purely speculating that the information from last year's trials [of HIPS] is negative.

"While I can confirm that we have not received the results, anecdotal evidence suggests to us the feedback will be broadly positive.

"The Conservative reaction is just the usual politicking and scaremongering that we have come to expect from them about HIPS."

The packs are designed to speed-up the home-buying process by making sure the seller has information about their property ready before starting to market the property for sale.

The packs include the following documents:

- An index of contents
- A sale statement summarising terms of sale
- A New Homes Warranty, where appropriate
- Evidence of title for registered properties
- An Energy Performance Certificate

The following documents are also compulsory, but they can be added to the pack later if there are delays in obtaining them:

- Evidence of title for unregistered properties
- Searches, ie local authority enquiries and a drainage and water search
- Where appropriate, commonhold information including a copy of the commonhold community statement
- Where appropriate, leasehold information including a copy of the lease, information on service charges and insurance

Mr Ockenden said the HIPS initiative must now be followed through by the Government.

He said: "This is why it is so frustrating that Government has not completed the roll-out of HIPS. We have seen the market settle down well in the roll-out of HIPS for four- and three-bedroom homes and feedback to date has been very positive."

FOLKESTONE Literary07 FESTIVAL

Harvey, co-author of Change the World for a Fiver, and comedienne Kate Evans, creator of Funny Weather.

Enjoy a variety of award-winning films including Al Gore's An Inconvenient Truth and DV8 Physical Theatre's The Cost of Living.

We are pleased to welcome presenter David Frost speaking about the momentous drama behind the book Frost/Nixon, international artist David Batchelor on the fear of colour, James Naughtie will delight us with The Making of Music plus Nicholas Parsons delivers his own inimitable performance, How Pleasant To Know Mr Lear.

Families, children and young people can all get involved in a variety of activities throughout the festival.

See Michael Morpurgo, former Children's Laureate, and Lyn Gardner at the Leas Cliff Hall (Tuesday, November 6), drop in to the Family Day at Waterstone's (Saturday, November 3) or hear digital animator Rick Leary on making the film Stardust (Friday November 9).

What's more, there's street theatre, a cabaret night, choirs and concerts (Walton's Façade), gypsy jazz, a festival quiz night, writing workshops and a site-specific commission for the Leas Lift (The Books of Dream and Loss).

Full programme details and booking at www.folkestonelifest.co.uk. Ticket office: 01303 842192.

Folkestone's arts-led renaissance, initiated by the Creative Foundation, continues with a host of major projects including the Literary Festival.

This autumn has seen the opening of the University Centre Folkestone and the Foster and Partners-designed Folkestone Academy. In 2008, projects include the Folkestone Triennial (23 site-specific art commissions for the town) followed by the opening of the Folkestone Performing Arts and Business Centre.

The artistic hub – the Creative Quarter – is also expanding. Take some time to explore Folkestone, the glorious seaside setting, visit the galleries, shops and eateries along The Old High Street and beyond.

I would like to thank the festival team, KOS Media and all our sponsors, partner venues and funders who have made this festival possible – they are all listed on our website.

Thank you to Peter Florence, director of the Guardian Hay-on-Wye Literary Festival, for his valuable contribution as festival godfather.

Come and join us for nine amazing days of literary delights and a whole host of fun. I look forward to seeing you at the festival.

'Some people are born to be politicians'

Even after 51 years as an MP, Tony Benn is not content with growing old gracefully

By PHIL REILLY

WHEN Tony Benn stepped down from Parliament after more than 50 years in 2001, he was reminded by a quip from his late wife Caroline that he would have "more time for politics".

She may well have been right – his later years have clearly not quelled his political appetite, but it turns out the veteran socialist and former cabinet member also has more time for something else – literary festivals.

"I absolutely love them," the 82-year-old explained with an enthusiasm of a man whose lust for life has not dwindled a jot.

"I couldn't even tell you how many I've been to – Edinburgh, Hay-on-Wye, Cheltenham. I love the discussion, and I've met so many nice and bright people. I get invited whenever I release a book and as long as I have the time I will always come along. I've been to so many now I can't remember them all."

His latest tome, Tony Benn: More Time for Politics, is a diary of his life since standing down as an MP. Like many retirees, Mr Benn has spent much of his time travelling to farflung places, although a trip to Baghdad on the eve of war in 2003 may not be the destination of choice for many pensioners.

The first president of the Stop the War Coalition, he was granted an audience with Saddam Hussein for a televised interview in February 2003.

"He said he didn't have any weapons of mass destruction. I asked him flat out and he said no. I didn't know whether to believe him, but it turns out he was right.

"The man was a brutal dictator, but obviously he was friendly with me."

The encounter was his second with the late Iraqi leader, the first taking place on the eve of the first Gulf War in 1990.

Despite his lack of success in preventing the two wars, it has not diminished his efforts to spread the pacifist cause. Indeed, he has spoken at more than 1,000 meetings since leaving Westminster.

"I spoke in March 2003, at the Stop the War rally when two million people turned up, which might have been my biggest audience. I went to New York and I spoke against the war, and in Cairo.

"When I stood down from Parliament in 2001, I wanted a bit more time so I wouldn't have to turn up in Westminster every day. I served 51 years and my sentence was commuted. But I didn't want to sit still."

As the clamour for an autumn election took hold in late September, Mr Benn found himself pondering a reluctant return to Westminster. He offered to stand as the Labour Party candidate for his home constituency of Kensington when it appeared a snap election may be called, but is glad that the outcome has now been avoided.

One Benn who is eagerly awaiting the election, however, is granddaughter Emily, who has been selected to fight for a West Sussex seat at the age of 18.

The schoolgirl, who is studying for A-Levels at St Olave's Grammar School in Orpington, will be the latest in a long line of Benns to stand for office, dating back to Tony's grandfather and including his son Hilary, the current environment secretary.

"She is young, but I don't think youth should be a factor in politics. I was 10 when I first campaigned in an election in 1935.

"Some people are born to be footballers and some are born to be politicians.

"I believe the voting age should be lowered to 16, if you are old enough to get married and join the Armed Services you should be old enough to vote."

Tony Benn will be appearing at the Folkestone Academy on November 10 at 7.30pm. Tickets are £12 or £11 with concessions. Call 01303 842192.

New novel a reflection of my life? No, no, no

By PHIL REILLY

POLITICIANS, journalists and the pressure on families in the public eye all play a major part in Sandra Howard's new book, but do not for a second suggest it may be autobiographical.

"No, no, no. I can assure you it is entirely fictional," the wife of former Conservative Party leader Michael Howard insisted. "I do know the intensity of the pressure of the media spotlight and the fact that politicians and journalists have a love-hate relationship, which obviously informed my writing, but it is not about my life."

The 67-year-old former model turned writer has just completed her second novel, entitled Ursula's Story, a sequel to her first tale of love and political intrigue, Glass Houses.

It tells the story of jilted wife Ursula, whose marriage broke down when her husband, the editor of a national newspaper, had an affair with a high-flying female politician in the first book.

It finds her facing up to the prospect of her husband remarrying, leaving her to bring up the kids in the full glare of the media.

"I really liked writing about Ursula because she was a blank canvas after the first novel," she said.

"I wanted to write about the people who get left behind in the world of high politics. Ursula starts out pretty fed up, her children are very excited about going to their father's wedding and she has to cope with what their life is going to be like now.

"She is also keen on someone, who is a bookseller, but there is an air of mystery around him. Halfway through her younger daughter goes missing and there is an awful lot of tension, especially as her new man quickly becomes a suspect."

Despite the major theme of a family trying to cope in the glare of the media spotlight, she is keen to stress she is not trying to make a point about press intrusion.

"It is not a political book. Quite a lot of people think there should be a privacy law, but I feel very strongly that there shouldn't. It is a very slippery slope if you try and gag the press."

Since writing Glass Houses, Mrs Howard has appeared at a number of literary festivals around the country, but it is Folkestone that she holds dearest – even if it is the one she finds the most nerve-wracking.

"It is also unlike anywhere for me because when I appeared at last year's festival I recognised about two-thirds of the audience," she added.

Sandra Howard will be appearing at the Folkestone Academy on November 8 at midday. Tickets are £8 or £7 with concessions. Call 01303 842192.

John Humphrys tackles the issue of spiritualism

Writing about the greatest question of all

IN HIS role presenting the Today programme for BBC Radio Four, John Humphrys has tackled the biggest political issues affecting the country, but for his new book he turned his attention to an even bigger question.

Entitled In God We Doubt: Confessions of a Failed Atheist, the book explains the former foreign correspondent's own spiritual journey, and includes conversations he had with the Archbishop of Canterbury and senior leaders of Jewish and Muslim faiths.

Mr Humphrys said: "I was one of many people who got christened and confirmed as a kid and grew up as a Christian, but I found as I got older that I couldn't go along with the notion of a merciful God."

"As a journalist and foreign correspondent I saw evidence of no such thing. I guess that's what turned me against it."

As the title suggests, he now describes himself as a "failed atheist" and was quick to criticise Richard Dawkins, author of anti-religious bestseller The God Delusion.

By PHIL REILLY

"What Dawkins says is that God doesn't exist, but the point of faith is that if you could prove it, it would not be faith."

"For militant atheists like Dawkins, particularly given their great scholarship their own experiences of God.

"Believers are believers and atheists are atheists. What there are a lot of are people like me who are somewhere in between, who don't believe in God, or at least not the monotheistic God that Christianity, Judaism or Islam recognise. These are the people I'm addressing in my book."

The book came about after the success of his Radio Four series Humphrys in Search of God, which the author claimed provoked the biggest audience response of any of his reports in his 40-year career in journalism.

"It was that response that suggested to me that I should write the book," he admitted.

"There are no answers in it, and I have to say my own views on religion have not changed. But what it offers is a look at why people have the beliefs that they have."

It's unfair to describe people who believe as stupid, and it shows incredible arrogance to deny people their faith...

and intelligence, it is grossly unfair to describe people who believe as stupid or deluded. It's pretty grotesque really, and shows an incredible arrogance to deny people their own faith.

"It is perfectly clear that many, many people genuinely believe, and they have

SHOWMAN: Nicholas Parsons will be remembering Lear's works

Parsons' delves into Lear's world of Quangle-Wangles and Pobbles

By JENNA PUDELEK

NICHOLAS Parsons is seeking to bring sense to Edward Lear's nonsense through a one-man performance of his life and works.

The actor and comedian will give an autobiographical account of how the 19th century artist invented a fantasy world where the heroes were Quangle-Wangles, Pobbles and Jumbles to escape his own demons.

Mr Parsons said: "I have been fascinated by Lear. When I started to research his life I found it was so interesting and difficult. So what I do is talk about the man and his life and relate it to his nonsense poems."

Lear is most famous for his 1867 nonsense The Owl and the Pussycat, which, like many of his poems and limericks, he illustrated himself.

The host of BBC Radio 4's Just a Minute has been doing the performance, which he originally prepared for the Edinburgh Festival, for 19 years.

Lear was the 20th child of 21 and was raised by his eldest sister Ann, who was 21 years his senior.

He suffered ill health, including epilepsy, asthma and bronchitis, which meant he travelled extensively around Europe and Asia to escape the cold British winters.

A talented artist, he recorded the different landscapes he found along the way.

Mr Parsons said: "He had a facility to write beautiful nonsense which sidelined his art but which children and adults loved. Also he wanted to do it for fun and to escape the rigors of his own problems."

Like many people, Mr Parsons remembers Lear's works from childhood, telling how his father used to take time out from his busy job as a GP to read the nonsense and even create some similar poems.

Lear's poems are said to be characterised by his irreverent view of the world but, as Mr Parsons' performance demonstrates, the humour and mocking of his words reveals much about the poet and his desire to escape the uptight orderliness of Victorian society.

Mr Parsons said: "He had a difficult childhood and worked incredibly hard from a young age."

"He had amazing industry shown by the number of paintings and journals his produced."

"While researching him I discovered what an amazing life he had and how his nonsense was very much a part of him. What I love is the sense behind the nonsense."

Lear's whimsical nonsense celebrates the sounds of words, both real and from the poet's lively imagination.

The renowned Lear neologism "runcible spoon" from the last verse of The Owl and the Pussycat can now be found in many English dictionaries.

■ Nicholas Parsons' performance How Pleasant to Know Mr Lear is on Tuesday November 6 at 7pm in the Leas Cliff Hall. Tickets are £12 and £11 concessions. Children must be over 12. Call 01303 228600 for tickets.

Live music, Conferences, A/V hire, repair, engineers, installation

By PHIL REILLY

IT IS not every day you get to interrupt the childhood of Henry VIII, but when Kent on Sunday called eminent historian David Starkey that is exactly what happened.

"I'm terribly sorry, you've caught me in the middle of writing," Mr Starkey explained in the hurried and excitable tone that will be familiar to viewers of his TV shows.

"It's a biography of Henry VIII. Don't worry, you haven't interrupted his birth, just his early childhood."

David Starkey rose to popular prominence through his histories of the kings and queens of Tudor Britain, followed by the hit Channel Four series Monarchy which made him the best-paid historian in the country.

His latest book, the paperback version of Monarchy: England and Her Rulers from the Tudors to the Windsors, was originally published in hardback last year, but now has an extra chapter bringing it firmly up to the present day.

Putting the monarchy in a modern context is clearly a subject that Mr Starkey gets excited about, not least when there is a whiff of revolution in the air.

"I don't think there's much of a threat now, but there was in 1997," he explains enthusiastically. "If the Blair project had worked, if, as it were, the brave new world had actually happened, then we'd have a kind of post-monarchy Blair presidential figure."

"No one thinks, apart from Gordon Brown himself, that he can do it. I think the monarchy is pretty safe for the immediate future."

What Prince Charles is trying to do is create a monarchy that will intervene and speak out openly on issues that are non-political, such as conservation and preservation of our old buildings...

Safe for now perhaps, but Mr Starkey insists that if it is to survive in the coming years it must change as it did nearly a century ago.

"The thing with the monarchy at the start of the 20th century is that it changed all the rules and behaves in a completely different way. It is almost as if there was a revolution."

"Before 1917 it was German names and marriage to Germans, but they saw the revolution in Russia and World War One."

"They then presented themselves as a monarchy that is suitable for democracy, more populist and more suitable for the God-fearing middle class."

"The monarchy needs to change itself again, but in some ways I think Prince Charles is pointing in the right direction. It can't just remain silent as it has under the Queen."

"What Prince Charles is trying to do is create a monarchy that will intervene and speak out openly on issues that are non-political, such as on the conservation and preservation of the countryside and old buildings."

"We need a more activist monarchy, and perhaps what would be best would be a relatively short reign by King Charles followed by William settling things down."

David Starkey is at the Folkestone Academy on Sunday, November 4 at 6pm, where he will be talking and answering questions. Tickets are £9 or £8 with concessions. Call 01303 842192.

Weekend highlights environmental issue

NOBEL prize winner Al Gore's controversial documentary An Inconvenient Truth is the highlight of a weekend dedicated to all things environmental at this year's festival.

The former US vice-president's film, which is shown at the Folkestone Academy on Saturday, November 10, has divided opinion since its release in 2006.

In the same week that its writer and star was given a Nobel Peace Prize amid calls for him to run for the White House, a High Court judge in the UK ruled that it contained nine factual errors or exaggerations.

He still insisted that the film's central argument that climate change is man-made was "broadly accurate", but it is probably best to take Mr Gore's statements on the causes of snow on Mount Kilimanjaro melting and polar bears drowning with a pinch of salt.

Other highlights of the weekend include talks by Eugenie Harvey, the co-author of Change the World for a Fiver, and Kate Evans, the comedian and cartoonist behind the graphic novel Funny Weather We're Having at the Moment, Isn't it Dear?

Physical theatre troupe DV8 will also be performing a production called The Cost of Living, and photographer David Buckland and 'sound sculptor' Max Eastley will be showing the work they put together after a visit to the Arctic. Call 01303 842192.

Children's novelist borrows inspiration

MAKE-BELIEVE: Lyn Gardner's book, Into the Woods, takes its inspiration from the work of the Grimms, Lewis Carroll... and Shrek

Guardian theatre critic turns her hand to a spot of storytelling

By JENNA PUDELEK

LYN Gardner knows her plays. As a theatre critic she travels around the country soaking up the best and the worst offerings from contemporary playwrights to Jacobean revenge tragedies.

Such immersion in a huge range of drama has left her mind teeming with different plots, characters and literary techniques throughout the ages and across continents.

It is therefore perhaps not surprising her first foray into children's books, Into the Woods is a mishmash of other writers borrowing from the Grimms, Lewis Carroll, alluding to Shrek and even Touching The Void.

The book is for eight to 12-year-olds and tells the story of three sisters Aurora, Storm and Anything Eden who after their mother dies in childbirth are left alone to battle against the evil Dr De Wilde and his pack of wolves.

"One of the things that will make it a pleasure for children is they will recognise the stories," she said.

"It is also a book that in many ways was written in the hope it would be read out loud. I wrote it while on holiday with my own children and they listened to a chapter everyday," Mrs Gardner said.

She chose to write a children's book because of her daughters, who are aged 12 and 16, and said the fairytale genre gave structure to the story.

Using pastiche and intertextuality, techniques found in a variety of postmodern literature, film and television, she calls it a "magpie book".

Travelling round the country seeing such a vast variety of plays for her job as The Guardian's theatre critic, she certainly had a lot of material to draw from.

"It is just a fun romp and it is particularly about four children who have to do something for themselves. That came from the fact children are so cosseted and stopped from doing anything with a hint of danger and I wanted to write a book about real adventure," she said.

The children are almost orphans as their grief-stricken father turns into a recluse after the death of their mother, telling them to call the baby 'anything'.

A boy called Kit sets off on a quest to get his hands on Storm's magic pipe, which the sisters must protect.

It is a sort of Enid Blyton adventure retold for the Harry Potter generation with mouth-watering descriptions of food to match Roald Dahl's James and the Giant Peach.

Mrs Gardner also explores the often-fractionious relationship between the two older sisters, who have completely different personalities and are thrust together forced to get on to save the day.

At the Folkestone Literary Festival the extracts from the new book will be read aloud to schoolchildren.

The author, who lives in Richmond, said children should be taught about the enjoyment that can be gained from reading at a young age – teaching them how to use their imagination away from the constant presence of the television.

She said: "That is one of the things I feel very strongly about.

"Literacy strategy teaches children to decipher sequences of words, but seldom allows room for really learning to love books.

"I don't think you can blame parents because mothers often have many demands on their time, but it's [reading to children] a great pleasure. It is something you can share particularly in modern family life. Families don't even eat together.

"If you can take that time, even 20 minutes a night, sitting and reading that is something you can do together," she added.

■ Mrs Gardner will be appearing at the festival along with former children's laureate Michael Morpurgo at Leas Cliff Hall on November 6. To book, call 01303 228600.

Monty Python star reveals his medieval musings

Terry looks forward to making his festival bow

TERRY Jones comes to Folkestone as an historian rather than a comic, but his Monty Python days and his musings on all things medieval are tightly entwined.

The man who made his name dressing up as little old ladies and the bowler-hat wearing 'man in the street' discovered his love for the period whilst recording Monty Python's Flying Circus in the early 1970s, and it proved to be a fascination that started a whole new career.

"What happened was that when we were shooting the TV shows I was actually moonlighting in the British Library," he explained.

"I was interested in bits of Chaucer, especially the description of the knight in The Knight's Tale. I thought he was quite boring, but I couldn't really understand why as Chaucer's characters aren't usually dull at all.

"When you look at all the campaigns he is supposed to have fought, they are all real campaigns, and you realise that far from being these noble people, knights were actually mercenaries.

"When we did the Holy Grail we made enough money to not have to work for a year, so I took a year off in 1980 to write about Chaucer's Knight. My book created quite a furore in the academic world when it came out.

"Now I've got academics saying it's one of the most important books on the subject."

By researching the knight's various battles, Mr Jones found himself re-evaluating a whole period of British history.

He is coming to Folkestone to talk about the life of Richard II, the much maligned 14th century monarch whom Jones thinks is long overdue a re-appraisal for his role in British history.

"Instead of Shakespeare's version of him as ineffectual, weak and a tyrant, I'm saying it's quite the reverse," he said, with an air of authority that seems a million miles from his Monty Python persona.

"He was a very revered and very strong king. It was Henry IV who deposed him that painted this propaganda image.

"He was effectively the victim of a particularly vicious spin campaign which has lasted about 600 years."

They say that history repeats itself, and it was through digging around in dusty medieval volumes that Mr Jones began to draw several uncomfortable comparisons with the modern era.

"In the 1360s we had been fighting with France for 20 years with an army full of mercenaries.

"The king tried to sign a peace treaty, but they wouldn't stop and he couldn't control them.

"They formed into three companies and went round Europe destroying, killing and looting, and it got completely out of hand.

"It was a total disaster for people in the 14th century and it is exactly what's happening now.

"The military industrial complex is creating wars, that's why we're in Iraq. It is the people who are making money out of war that are pushing them.

"Unfortunately, I don't know much about the 15th century, so I can't really say how it resolves itself. It doesn't suppose it bodes particularly well."

Mr Jones also said there were comparisons to be drawn between Henry IV, the man responsible for muddying the name of Richard II, and George W Bush.

"In order to ensure his position he declares war on heresy, which is exactly like the war on terror.

The military industrial complex is creating wars, that's the reason why we're in Iraq. It's the people who are making money out of war that are pushing them...

"It was to keep people in a constant state of fear."

Mr Jones missed last year's festival after being diagnosed with bowel cancer, but after an operation and a few bouts of chemotherapy he insisted he was "more or less recovered".

He added: "I feel fine though and I'm looking forward to this year's festival, especially after missing out last year."

■ Terry Jones appears at the Folkestone Academy on Thursday, November 8 for a talk entitled Was Richard II a Tyrant? Tickets are £12 or £11 with concessions and are available online at www.folkestonefestival.co.uk or by calling 01303 842192.

MOTORS NEWS

Past and present boost for Caterham's sales

DAYS may be shorter, but crisp mornings and blue skies have helped demand for new and used examples of the Kent-built Caterham Seven roadster.

Sales of used Sevens are up 25 per cent on 2006. Caterham says this may be due to the new Ford Sigma engine version boosting nostalgic interest in outgoing K-Series models like the Superlight R300.

Prices range from low mileage 1.4 105bhp Classics for as little as £9,950 to a two-year-old, range-topping CSR260 for £34,000.

Caterham has sold 12,000 of the lightweight sports car since 1973 and the design is currently celebrating 50 years.

Rugged new Seat has power and practicality

KENT Seat dealers have something different to offer with the launch of the new Altea Freerack – a genuine sporting 4x4 cum people carrier.

It offers increased ride height and tough-looking styling, plus plenty of power; two models are offered, the 2.0-litre TSI petrol and 2.0-litre TDI diesel, priced at £20,495 and £21,395 respectively.

The newcomers feature a multimedia system with roof-mounted seven-inch screen that can link to DVD and MP3 players, video games and laptop computer.

New power-packed C2 baby from Citroën

HOT hatch and economy car are rarely paired descriptions, but Citroën claims to have managed this with its new 110bhp C2 1.6HDi VTS performance supermini.

Costing just £10,995 at the moment, this punchy little powerhouse – it delivers 80 per cent more pulling power than its petrol-powered stablemate – can reach 60mph in just over nine seconds.

But it is capable of averaging more than 60mpg and delivers CO2 emissions of just 119g/km, qualifying it for Band-B road tax.

LOOKING GOOD: Mercedes has shed its old conservative image with the striking CLS, a sleek four-door coupé which combines style, power and comfort

Big Mercedes CLS has definite feel-good factor

SOMETIMES you can set aside normal factors and go with just one when road testing a car.

It can be summed up as the 'feel-good factor'. You ask yourself: "Would this car lift my soul at first sight in the morning before you even climb behind the wheel?"

The Mercedes CLS is one of those cars.

Admittedly, it is hard to understand why Mercedes decided to make this sleek four-door sports coupé in the first place, when it had models enough to fill niches within niches.

On the other hand, it is a 'halo model' to outshine all others; if you doubted that Mercedes-Benz had shed its old conservative image, this is all the proof needed.

Our test car was the 3.5-litre V6 – the junior petrol model, but still capable of 0-62mph in 6.7 seconds.

It feels and sounds as good as the swooping bodywork suggests, but there is also the bonkers V8 AMG version with its 0-62mph in 4.5 seconds to get the adrenaline pumping.

The canny buy of the range though is the 3.0-litre diesel, with a comparatively modest seven-second sprint time, smooth running and an average of around 35-40mpg.

Whichever you go for though, a slick-shifting seven-speed auto 'box adds to the refined feel of the car and can be set in 'sport' or 'comfort' mode – the latter shifts up earlier rather than holding onto gears for maximum acceleration.

Using the more realistic sport mode – this is a sports coupé after all – the CLS's excellent chassis can be further exploited by using manual selection, though the intelligent auto is good enough to leave for most driving.

The swooping lines of the exterior are skillfully carried over to the interior through sculpted doors and the sweep of the centre console front and back – the car is a four-door 'for four' with two deep and comfortable sports seats in the back even if you have to duck a bit to get into them.

For a sporting car there is also an impressive amount of storage and luggage space.

CLS prices start at £43,962.

USED CAR ROUND-UP: OUR PICK FROM A KEY SECTOR

COMPACT 4x4s

IT'S not hard to see why the compact 4x4 or sports utility vehicle (SUV) sector has boomed in the past few years. By combining trendy 4x4 looks, extra grip, varying degrees of off-roading ability and high-riding MPV versatility – many models have removable or flexible seating systems – carmakers have hit several bull's eyes at the same time. Couple that with the fact hi-tech diesel engines mean owners can buy image without having to empty their wallets to run the car, and the compact SUV package is hard to resist.

TOYOTA RAV4

TOYOTA'S original RAV4 – the so-called GTI off-roader – revolutionised the small 4x4 sector. The Japanese brand recognised that few 4x4s actually went anywhere where they needed the extra grip, so it concentrated instead on maximising on-road performance and comfort – the RAV was a huge success. The second-generation car was chunkier and roomier and offered a choice of diesel and petrol, removable rear seats and an even better driving experience.

LAND ROVER FREELANDER

TRUE to its Land Rover heritage, the Freelander is a serious, compact SUV off-road but also refined on-road. The 'country set' cachet of the badge also helped make it one of the best-sellers in its class. It sometimes suffers on the reliability front but does offer three- and five-door versions and a range of engine options, from an everyday 1.8 petrol to lively 2.5 V6 unit and including one of the best turbodiesels in the business.

HYUNDAI SANTA FE

HYUNDAI came through on the blind side with this one. The Korean marque's cars had been pretty forgettable until then, but the value-for-money Santa Fe looked and played the part, without being a serious off-roader. The interior was spacious and a rugged diesel engine option helped with everyday running costs. Hyundai's famous five-year warranty would then have clinched the deal for most buyers. If the budget will stretch, it is worth looking for the second-generation car.

Technical Services

Assistant Coastal Engineer

Salary £20,004 to £24,444 + Benefits

At Shepway we are facing exciting challenges and require the right staff to achieve the delivery of a number of quality projects. Do you have the qualities and skills to meet this challenge?

The district is undergoing major change with a range of projects to improve the quality of life for its residents and visitors including further environmental improvements to the coastline.

The Council wishes to recruit an Assistant Coastal Engineer who will work with a team of engineers to deliver such projects as the Strategic Regional Coastal Monitoring Programme, the Coronation Parade Refurbishment Scheme and the Beach Management Scheme.

As a member of the Project Team, you will play a supporting role in the Council's key coastal projects and assist with other projects when required. Responsibilities include carrying out GPS beach surveys, producing and amending technical drawings, helping with data collection for grant aid claims from central government and supporting the Project Team.

The successful applicant will have a sound understanding of coastal processes and a good working knowledge of land surveying, have an interest in engineering, and be willing to take part in GPS based coastal monitoring.

Shepway District Council is a pro-active, forward thinking authority, with a strong commitment to its customers and staff.

For an informal discussion, please call Simon Brooks, Senior Coastal Engineer on 01303 853305.

Application details can be downloaded at www.shepway.gov.uk alternatively email jobs@shepway.gov.uk or call our 24 hour answerphone service on (01303) 853481.

The closing date for applications is Friday 9 November 2007. Interviews will be held shortly after the closing date.

Our Library Service has a lot more to offer than just books. With reading groups, talks and exhibitions, it offers a range of activities for every age group - from Baby Bounce and Rhyme sessions to internet classes for older people.

To deliver all this, we need the right people serving our customers. While relevant experience would come in handy, it isn't essential - it's much more important that you're friendly, enthusiastic and approachable.

We offer good training and development opportunities, and the chance to work at locations across our area. We've got libraries in towns and villages, as well as mobile facilities and services.

If you'd like to find out more, we're hosting Open Days at four different libraries across our area. Book a 20-minute slot, and we'll give you a tour of the library and a mini preliminary interview.

To book your slot or to find out more, please call 01622 696517 quoting Open Day.

We're working hard to deliver quality services to our local community. And our exceptional reputation speaks volumes about our success. On top of this, we ensure the very best working environment for all our staff - offering development and encouraging diversity at every level.

Basic and Key Skills Tutor

Starting salary £19,572, with progression through contribution related pay to £22,268 per annum
East Kent area - Canterbury, Thanet and Folkestone

KEY Training Services deliver an exciting range of innovative training programmes to people aged 14-upwards and is the largest work-based training provider in Kent.

Your responsibilities will include the team teaching of effective and high quality Basic, Key Skills and Job Search training across a range of ability groups.

You will have the opportunity to design and produce relevant training materials and to plan challenging and inspirational training. KEY are forward thinking in their approach to Key Skills/Skills for Life qualifications and delivery will take place in both formal and informal learning environments to both young people and adults.

Ideally you will need to be qualified to either Literacy or Numeracy Level 4, with a teaching qualification or teaching experience. KEY provides excellent opportunities for professional and personal development.

You will be required to work at more than one training centre in the area in which you are based, so the ability to travel is essential.

Project Worker

Starting salary £17,842, with progression through contribution related pay to £19,572 per annum pro rata
Part-time 25 hours per week, term-time only Maidstone

Kent Safe Schools have successfully secured a bid to support permanently excluded young people through alternative education. We have developed three innovative projects designed to meet the educational needs of permanently excluded Year 10/11 pupils and develop the delivery of the Alternative Curriculum Programmes within an off-school site setting.

Through providing a positive intervention strategy, we are in a position to support a number of vulnerable young people at key stage 4, both in and out of education. All young people, but particularly those who are "at risk", need to develop particular knowledge, positive behaviours and pro-social attitudes and skills if they are to benefit from school, college or training, cope positively with the developmental tasks of adolescence and take on the responsibilities of adulthood. They need to be helped to gain employment or become otherwise positively involved in society.

Supporting the Project Officer in the running of the provision, you will possess a good understanding of educational issues and experience of working with this complex and difficult to reach, client group.

“Making more of talent. Including yours.”

As the leading training provider to the building services engineering sector, JTL is helping to create a new breed of plumbers and electricians. Skilled men and women of all ages, all backgrounds and practically every community and race. Our objective is to help them become the very best at what they do.

Regional Manager

£38,000 + company car South East – home-based with travel

Educated to HNC level or equivalent and with proven managerial ability, you'll monitor the work of our regional team, ensuring that our people are appropriately motivated and trained and deliver a quality service in line with our targets. It's vitally important that we comply with the terms and conditions of appropriate contracts and deliver a high-quality operational strategy. You'll ensure that the regional team is prepared for audits and oversee the negotiation of training provider contracts. Good IT skills and a driving licence are essential.

Assistant Regional Manager

£32,000 Kent, Surrey, East & West Sussex – home-based with travel

Responsible for the remote management of a sub-team through a range of different communication channels, you'll monitor performance and ensure that we comply with contractual requirements. You'll also support the Regional Manager in the development of successful regional strategies. As well as being educated to NVQ3 level or equivalent, you'll be proficient in IT and have a driving licence and access to a car.

For either role, it would be an advantage to have a working knowledge of the contracting and building services industry and experience of work-based learning. A CRB Standard Disclosure is also required. In addition to the salary, there is an excellent benefits package that includes a final salary pension scheme and BUPA. So take the next step. Contact our team for an application form by calling 01689 884107 or email hr@jtltraining.com quoting the reference number RM117 for the Manager's role or ARM118 for the Assistant's role. Closing date: 2nd November.

Please note: an application form must be completed, we cannot accept CVs. No agencies please.

Committed to Equal Opportunities

2 full time temporary posts to cover maternity leave

Both vacancies are for 37 hours per week - until September 2008

Salary £11,889 - £14,871

We are looking for 2 energetic and enthusiastic people to provide a high quality public service and efficient technical and administrative support to Planning Staff.

Planning Technical Assistant

Ref: 612DS8

Duties include assisting with the processing of planning applications & appeals, the completion of Land Charge Searches, advising the public on the submission of applications and provision of site histories. Both the planning application and land charge systems are computerised.

The postholder will be part of a team, which is responsible for the maintenance of planning data on the Council's Geographical Information System (GIS).

The successful applicant must be numerate, articulate, computer literate and it would be desirable to be able to demonstrate a familiarity with GIS and/or conventional maps. Education to GCSE Grade C or above, or equivalent, in English and Mathematics is essential.

Previous experience in a technical/administrative support role to planning officers would be an advantage.

Planning Administrative Assistant

Ref: 602DS8

As a member of the Planning Administration section, you will provide administration/clerical support to professional planners; the major task being the processing of planning applications.

Duties will also include liaison with members of the public (and/or their representatives), statutory bodies (eg central Government Departments) and other sections of the Council.

Previous experience of processing planning applications using a computerised system and a recognised word processing qualification are desirable. Confidence, numeracy and communication skills are also required.

You need to be able to work under pressure and to deadlines whilst still maintaining a high level of accuracy. You must also be patient, tactful and tolerant and work both on your own initiative and as a part of a small team.

For further information contact Human Resources, Swale Borough Council, Swale House, East Street, Sittingbourne, Kent, ME10 3HT. Telephone Sittingbourne (01795) 417414 (24 hour voice mail), quoting appropriate reference number.

Thanet is a beautiful place to work

Corporate Project Officer

£25,701-£29,328 per annum

Educated to degree level, with a passion for helping all areas of the Council improve performance, you will understand the wider local government agenda and be able to research best practice.

A skilled net-worker and influencer, you will engage with Senior Managers and support them to develop plans which move us to becoming an excellent council of the future. We think you will be able to see the big picture and be able to gather credible evidence, in order to promote and support improved performance.

Key to this role is the ability to conduct research and to write and present clearly and convincingly.

For an informal discussion regarding this post, please contact Sophie Chadwick on 01843 577180.

All posts include generous annual leave, flexible working (some posts excluded), a 37-hour week, entry into a medical health scheme, subsidised bus pass, as well as access to the local government final salary pension scheme.

For an application form and job description for this position, please contact the Human Resources Department on (01843) 577175 (24 hours), e-mail personnel@thanet.gov.uk or, download an application form from www.thanet.gov.uk/jobs.

Thanet District Council is an equal opportunities employer committed to employing people with disabilities. Any disabled applicant who meets the minimum criteria for the posts will be guaranteed an interview.

The closing date for this position is: 5 November 2007
Interviews will be held: w/c 19 November 2007

Chaucer Insurance is the UK Motor Division of a publicly quoted company with its main operating centre in Whitstable, Kent, and head office in the City.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR RPG IV DEVELOPERS IN WHITSTABLE

Are you fed-up with the hours wasted commuting?

Chaucer Insurance is the UK motor insurance division of a publicly quoted company with its main operating center in Whitstable, Kent and head office in the city.

We have a vacancy for a skilled RPG IV developer to work on our central Insurance system (Insure 90).

You will be working as part of a growing team and your role will include analysis, design and development of insurance applications. You will also be developing processes that will link web applications to the company's mainframe, allowing us to provide direct access to our Agent and Client network.

You should have good experience of RPG 400 and RPG IV and a strong knowledge of the IBM OS400 operating system. Ideally you will have a good knowledge of cross machine data transfer technology.

You should come from a strong business background, and Insurance or Accounting knowledge would be preferable. Good written and verbal communication skills are essential.

Any web base knowledge of any the following would be an advantage: HTML/CSS, VB.Net, ASP.Net, JavaScript, MS SQL, XML or MS IIS (Internet Information Services).

Chaucer has a great working environment with a lively social scene and café on site. We offer competitive salaries along with full company benefits.

If you are interested in joining the team, please send your CV to Debbie Forryan, Chaucer Insurance, Prospect House, Thanet Way, Whitstable, Kent, CT5 3FD or via email to Debbie.forryan@chaucerplc.com

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR ACCEPTANCE OF ADVERTISEMENTS

- KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd ("the publisher") reserves the right of any advertisement without notice or explanation. In these terms the word "advertiser" shall be construed to include any person or organisation placing an advertisement on behalf of another.
- Guarantee of insertion cannot be given and the publishers shall not be liable for any loss or damage caused by any error inaccuracy in the printing of an advertisement or by the total or partial failure (however caused) of publication or distribution of any publication in which an advertisement is scheduled to appear. In no case shall the total liability of the publisher for any misprint, error or omission exceed the price charged by the publisher for that advertisement.
- Advertisements will be accepted only on the express condition that the advertiser warrants that the advertisement does not in any way contravene any existing legislation and in particular the Trade and Description Act 1968 and the Consumer Credit Act 1974.
- It is the responsibility of all advertisers to ensure that recruitment related advertising meets current employment legislation and KOS Media takes no responsibility for liability in errors and omissions to the content of this newspaper, relating to employment law.
- Where shrinkage of an advertisement occurs for whatever reason, the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- Claims for any error or inaccuracy in the printing of an advertisement must be made within 10 days of publication to the accounts department in writing.
- No liability is accepted for any loss or damage alleged to have arisen through delay in forwarding replies to Box numbers, however caused, nor for the loss or damage to any artwork supplied.
- Advertisers are requested to check their advertisements after the first insertion. The publisher will not be responsible for any errors on subsequent insertions, which have not been advised to them.
- Cancellation must be advised in writing one week prior to date of publication of an advertisement.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered, the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly.
- a) All accounts due for payment shall be notified to the Advertiser by the 30th day following the date of the invoice, time to be of the essence. All sums due to the Publishers shall be paid in full, and the Advertiser shall have no right of set off in any circumstances.
b) In the event that payment is not received by the Publishers by the due date, the Publisher shall be entitled to suspend all further advertising until payment is received and/or repudiate the contract.
c) In the event that payment is not received by the Publishers by the due date the Publisher reserves the right to charge interest on all overdue balances calculated on a daily basis at the rate of two per cent above the minimum lending rate of National Westminster Bank Plc from time to time in force.
d) Notwithstanding anything in these terms and conditions or implied to the contrary, in the event of the Advertiser ceasing to use the services of the Publisher (for whatever reason), the whole amount of monies due from the Advertiser to the date of cessation shall fall due for immediate payment.
e) The Advertiser will be liable for all costs incurred by the Publisher in the recovery of debts not paid by the due date.
f) Payment may be made by cheque, credit transfer, direct debit, cash and any major credit card.
- Any discount which the Publisher may have agreed with the Advertiser shall be forfeited in the event of failure by the Advertiser to complete the contract or to meet the above credit terms.
- Advertising Agency commission will be allowed to those advertisers recognised by the Newspaper Society, but shall not exceed ten per cent and will be subject to the terms of that recognition. This commission will not be allowed if the Advertising Agency fails to meet the terms.
- All private advertisement and certain categories as laid down by the Publisher must be prepaid.
- The Advertiser agrees to indemnify both the publisher and the Group in respect of all costs, damages or other charges falling upon the Publisher or any of the companies within the Group as the result of legal action or threatened legal action or threatened legal arising from the publication of the advertisement.
- Order for an advertisement shall amount to acceptance of these terms and conditions, and any condition placed on an order by an Advertiser shall be null and void in so far as it conflicts with them.
- Copyright in advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the publishers consent.

Working closely with settings, you will be proactive in barriers to learning for these children, and adopt appropriate early interventions, which will enable the children to access the National Curriculum and personal development opportunities. You will need to demonstrate specialist experience and qualifications, be able to turn strategy and vision into positive action, and have high level communication and interpersonal skills. You will work as part of a forward thinking, co-operative team that works collectively to improve the achievement and well being of all children. This post is subject to an Enhanced Disclosure Application to the Criminal Records Bureau. For further information, please contact Julie Stones on 01622 605106.

ENGINEERING, MANUFACTURING, UTILITIES

JOB TITLE:
Assistant Coastal Engineer
LOCATION:
Folkestone
SALARY:
£20,004 to £24,444 + Benefits
COMPANY:
Shepway District Council
At Shepway we are facing exciting challenges and require the right staff to achieve the delivery of a number of quality projects. Do you have the qualities and skills to meet this challenge? The district is undergoing major change with a range of projects to improve the quality of life for its residents and visitors including further environmental improvements to the coastline. The Council wishes to recruit an Assistant Coastal Engineer who will work with a team of engineers to deliver such projects as the Strategic Regional Coastal Monitoring Programme, the Coronation Parade Refurbishment Scheme and the Beach Management Scheme. As a member of the Project Team, you will play a supporting role in the Council's key coastal projects and assist with other projects when required. Responsibilities include carrying out GPS beach surveys, producing and amending technical drawings, helping with data collection for grant aid claims from central government and supporting the Project Team. The successful applicant will have a sound understanding of coastal processes and a good working knowledge of land surveying, have an interest in engineering, and be willing to take part in GPS based coastal monitoring. Shepway District Council is a pro-active, forward thinking authority, with a strong commitment to its customers and staff. For an informal discussion, please call Simon Brooks, Senior Coastal Engineer on 01303 853305. Application details can be downloaded at www.shepway.gov.uk

Part-time 25 hours per week, term-time only. Kent Safe Schools have successfully secured a bid to support permanently excluded young people through alternative education. We have developed three innovative projects designed to meet the educational needs of permanently excluded Year 10/11 pupils and develop the delivery of the Alternative Curriculum Programmes within an off-school site setting. Through providing a positive intervention strategy, we are in a position to support a number of vulnerable young people at key stage 4, both in and out of education. All young people, but particularly those who are "at risk", need to develop particular knowledge, positive behaviours and pro-social attitudes and skills if they are to benefit from school, college or training, cope positively with the developmental tasks of adolescence and take on the responsibilities of adulthood. They need to be helped to gain employment or become otherwise positively involved in society. Supporting the Project Officer in the running of the provision, you will possess a good understanding of educational issues and experience of working with this complex and difficult to reach, client group. This post is subject to an Enhanced Disclosure Application to the Criminal Records Bureau. For an informal discussion about this post, please contact Jim Connolly on 07740 183 931.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Move to bring freight back to Channel Tunnel

EUROTUNNEL has decided to halve the cost of taking freight through the Channel Tunnel. The move is in a bid to bring traffic away from the ferries.

The average toll for a train of freight will be £3,000 from the start of next year, down from the current £6,000.

Eurotunnel's freight business has fallen over recent years, down from 3million tonnes in 1997 to just over 1m this year. The company blamed the fall on a growing lack of competitiveness in relation to the ferry companies – partly caused by its increased security costs.

A spokesman said the reduced prices had "considerable potential" to reverse its downward trend of rail freight.

Networking breakfast chance to pick up tips

THE Kent Invicta Chamber of Commerce launches the first of its new weekly networking business group next week.

The Business Breakfast Group is being organised by the business support organisation – which covers Maidstone, Ashford, Canterbury and Thanet – and gets under way on November 9.

The meetings will include 15-minute advice sessions on a variety of topics, including how to increase sales and cash flow, and top marketing tips.

The first is staged at the Boys' Hall in Willesborough, Ashford, between 7.30am-9am and open to members only.

For full details, email events@kentinvictachamber.co.uk.

Orders growing despite financial instability

MANUFACTURERS in the South East have become more pessimistic about the business environment in the wake of the credit crunch, according to the Confederation of British Industry.

However, the latest quarterly CBI Industrial Trends survey shows that despite the drop in sentiment, orders grew strongly and there is little evidence so far of the recent global financial instability.

But Richard Brownlow-Davies, the CBI's South East assistant regional director, said: "There are tentative signs the pace of demand and output growth will edge lower in coming months."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: Shadow directorships resemble those of actual directors, which means they can share the civil liabilities in the event of a corporate insolvency

Danger lurking in the shadows

MATTHEW DUGDALE, of Kingsley Smith Solicitors, explains why taking up the role of non-executive director could leave you with more than you bargained for...

THE thought of a nice cosy non-executive directorship (NED) may be appealing for some people, and certainly in the past many were regarded as undemanding stipends.

However, the role of non-executives is being increasingly put under the microscope when companies fail and legislation coming in this month further ups the ante for NEDs.

This much is well known.

What is less well known is that even where the appointment to the board is unofficial, the same dangers are present.

The risk of being considered a shadow director depends on your role in the company. If you act as a director – in the sense that your instructions or directions are normally acted upon by the company – you are for some purposes in the same legal position as 'proper' directors of the company.

People in this position are known as 'shadow directors'.

Unfortunately for such people, danger lurks in shadow directorships because the main way in which their position resembles that of actual directors is they can share the civil liabilities of other directors in the event of a corporate insolvency.

This may lead to them being required to contribute funds to pay creditors of the company if it becomes insolvent.

They also face the possibility of being disqualified from acting as a director by the Department of Trade and Industry, where their conduct warrants such a ruling.

If you are asked to be a non-executive director or to participate at the decision-making level of a company's management as a consultant or advisor, take care – especially if the company is in financial difficulty.

Recently, a shadow director of a company was ordered to repay more than £850,000 plus compound interest after the company with which he was involved went into insolvent liquidation.

For a shadow director, ignorance of one's responsibilities is no defence.

Directors who fail to take actions to protect the interests of shareholders or who behave improperly can face significant penalties.

The best advice is always to seek legal advice before you take the plunge.

Deal down in first minute

DEAL TOWN conceded the fastest goal of the day in the Kent Premier League as they went down 2-1 at home to VCD Athletic.

Leroy Huggins scored after just one minute to put Town on the back foot.

A penalty from Ashley Probetts doubled VCD's advantage on 35 minutes, to send Deal in 2-0 down at the break.

A half-time talk from Hares seemed to work for Town, who got back into the game with a goal in the 80th minute through David Cory.

However, Hares' side were unable to force an equaliser.

Hythe take lead, but let in six

HYPHE Town were involved in a nine-goal thriller at Eden Park Avenue at the weekend.

Unfortunately, most of them went to Beckenham Town who eventually ran out 6-3 winners.

Hythe, with just one loss in the Kent Premier League, took the lead after just five minutes through Jason Brazier.

However, Ross Cable levelled for Beckenham on 10 minutes after his side were awarded a penalty.

Cable slotted home from the spot and the score remained 1-1 at the break.

In the second half, Jason Thompson put the home side in front only a minute after the restart. Hythe hit back two minutes later through Ian Hayes who brought the scores level. Cable then added another penalty for Beckenham before Nick Curran made it four.

The prolific Buster Smissen added to his goal tally by pulling one back for Hythe, but Beckenham added two further goals through Lenny Piper and Joe Healey to secure their seventh league win of the campaign.

ACHIEVEMENT: Boss Neil Cugley hopes his team's decent run in the FA Cup will help put the club on a stable financial footing for the rest of the season

FA loss sees Invicta miss out on TV tie

FOLKESTONE INVICTA missed out on a bumper pay day as Billericay Town took the spoils in the final FA Cup qualifying round to be rewarded with a glamour tie against Swansea in the first round proper.

Billericay's match against the Swans has every chance of being televised in 10 days' time, which would have given Invicta a substantial windfall had they made it through.

Striker Joe Flack was the visitors' hero as he scored both goals in a tense and edgy encounter.

Invicta boss Neil Cugley, who guided the side to a first-round tie against Chester City two years ago, was disappointed to have missed out on another chance to take a league scalp.

He said: "Of course it hurts when you see they got Swansea – we have had it before when we nearly played Reading three years ago, but you just have to take these things on the chin.

"We are not a big club and it is quite an achievement to get this far. It is a great competition, no other non-league team in Kent got through so it is no disgrace.

"We didn't play particularly well, I thought their quality shone through on the day especially the lad up front who scored two goals, he was different class.

"They are a good side and they have got some quality players; it shows the standard we need to be at to go up another level."

Flack opened the scoring in the 44th minute when he pounced to convert a rebound from close range after Invicta goalkeeper Charlie Mitten had made a great save to keep out a Paul Abbott shot.

The former Stevenage Borough man struck again seven minutes after the break when he collected a throw in from Danny Kerrigan and hit an unstoppable shot into the roof of the net.

Invicta had struggled to create many clear chances, though striker Leigh Bremner and defender Liam Friend had half chances.

But it was Billericay's afternoon and the visitors looked dangerous on the break in the closing minutes as Invicta defender Frankie Chappell blocked from substitute Bradley Woods-Garner.

It was the third defeat in a row for Invicta, but Cugley is hoping the cup run helps the club maintain consistency throughout the season.

He said: "We can take some comfort from the fact that the club has made around £11,000 in prize money.

"It is very important to a club like ours, in previous years we might have needed to move players on but with the extra money we might not have to cut back, so we can now get a bit of stability and hopefully push on."

BELOW PAR: Deal were not at their best but did enough to win against Eastbourne

Deal go top of the league

DEAL & BETTESHANGER were not at their best but did enough to see off Eastbourne and send them top of the league.

The visitors played into a stiff wind in the first half and led 7-5 at the break, thanks to a try from Luke Armstrong who cut through on the half-way line to touch down under the posts.

After the break and with the breeze at their backs, Deal tried to play a more expansive game but Eastbourne's pack played well and did a good job of restricting the supply of ball.

Early in the second period Tom Best added a penalty to make it 10-5 before full-back Dan Best scored a try to establish a significant lead.

FOOTBALL

Eastbourne 5 Deal & Betteshanger 20

Eastbourne recycled the ball well but rarely threatened Deal's try line and Tom Best completed the scoring late on with another penalty.

Coach Martyn Michael was pleased with the win but felt the team had more to give.

He said: "It was a good game of rugby and we always had the potential to score in a number of different areas.

"But I think we expected to win just by turning up, which was a shame because we didn't play very well.

"We are not performing to our full potential which is frustrating as a coach, but if you can pick up a good result when you are not playing well that is the mark of a good side.

"We have had a bit of a slump in performance compared to early in the season but we are still coming away with victories.

"From now until Christmas there are a lot of difficult games so we need to be at our best."

Deal & Betteshanger's next game is at home to Chichester on Saturday.

Hess on the hunt for new Dover striker

FOOTBALL

■ BY TOM HOWARD

Burgess Hill Town 0-1 Dover Athletic

IT is just six months since Andy Hessenthaler took over as Dover Athletic manager, but it appears he has galvanised a team capable of escaping Ryman Division One South.

A Jimmy Dryden goal in the first half helped the Whites to a 1-0 win over Burgess Hill on Saturday.

A delighted Hessenthaler said after the match: "We have had a good start but it is early days.

"There are only a few that are in the side that were here originally, but I think the side has gelled really well and quickly, which is great for Dover."

Hessenthaler has been influential for the Whites, playing in the heart of the midfield and he admits the standard is a lot different to what he is accustomed to.

He said: "I think I have completed six full games and I feel I am contributing well to the team.

"The real difference when I was playing in the football league is that I was training every night, but at this level we only train two nights a week, so there is a lot more time to rest."

One area he feels that the Whites can improve on this season is being clinical in the final third.

He added: "I would like to be able to bring in another striker but I have used the entire transfer budget, so I may have to find a way of balancing the books.

"This should get the strikers to up their game as they know I am on the lookout for a bit more fire power upfront but I am always looking to better the team."

GOOD START: Dover player-manager Andy Hessenthaler hopes his side can continue their good early season form

League leaders fall at Crabble

RUGBY

Dover 45-34 Old Dunstonians

DOVER produced a confidence-boosting win to beat league leaders Old Dunstonians in the best game so far at Crabble.

The first quarter was all Dover with three tries being scored and some scintillating rugby by the hosts, with Old D's outside-half kicking a penalty in reply.

Jamie Townley scored Dover's first before Jon Foster and Ricky Mackintosh added to the scoresheet. Martyn Beaumont slotted all three conversions. The pace was electric and the forwards were providing the platform for the backs to perform.

A lapse in concentration allowed a resurgent Old D's back into the game as they scored two converted tries and a drop goal to leave Dover up by a single point at half-time.

With the advantage of the slope in the second half, Dover needed a quick score to gather the momentum and they got it when Beaumont fed Lee Tonks and he sliced through the back line to touch down and the conversion followed.

HARD FOUGHT: Dover caused an upset to beat league leaders Old Dunstonians in the season's best match at the Crabble

The jubilation was short lived as Old D's responded to score from a lineout situation and a conversion.

Beaumont kicked a penalty to increase the score and Jon Foster scored his second try after superb ball retention from the backs.

The killer punch came direct from the kick-off when Dover secured the ball and Ricky Mackintosh scored under the posts.

Beaumont kicked both conversions home.

Old D's response was to return back to the Dover half and following some extensive pressure, they touched down to narrow the gap.

Dover held on at the end with some stubborn resistance and on the final whistle, both teams agreed it was one of the most exciting and enjoyable contests seen at Crabble so far this season.

SPORT IN BRIEF

Whites facing tough draw in FA Trophy

ANDY Hessenthaler's Dover Athletic have been handed a home draw in the next round of the FA Trophy against Southern Premier League side Brackley.

The Whites will have to produce another strong performance if they are to progress further in the competition.

Brackley play in a step above Dover in the non-league pyramid and have only lost two games all season.

The game will be played at the SeaFrance Crabble Stadium on November 3.

Monarchs convert kids to American football

AMERICAN football could be coming to a school near you, as coaches from Cinque Port Monarchs will be taking over PE lessons to teach the sport to youngsters.

The Cinque Port Mavericks are a children's team based in Dover and are one of the only clubs that have mixed teams playing in competition.

This week Jay Wood-Stoddard, head coach of the Monarchs, will visit Dover Grammar School to try and encourage more school pupils to get involved in the sport.

Ladies line up against top-of-the-table team

DEAL Ladies Hockey will be in action this weekend, hoping to continue their positive start to the season when they face top-of-the-league Maidstone Ladies.

Yvette Isley's side have started the season brilliantly with two wins and two draws and are currently lying third in the Kent Division Two.

A win against Maidstone could see Deal claim the top position. Deal's men will also be in action this week in a friendly match against Bexley Invicta

Dart league targeting a thrilling season finale

THE Dover Invitational Darts League is building towards a climax with all the teams back in action this week.

High-flying Boars Head Diamonds will play Phoenix A who are a side on the rise thanks a to a 5-4 victory over bottom of the league Archer.

If Phoenix win there is a slim chance they can clinch top spot in Division One.

Unbeaten Bull A have the tricky tie against Seaman Mission a who are currently just two points behind the front runners.
